Integrated Regional Data Tool

This tool is intended to provide users with the opportunity to obtain region-specific data, statewide and for individual counties, in an efficient and consolidated way. The tool currently includes integrated client data (which represents services to unique individuals).

Due to enhancements in the way clients have been matched and counted for this report, 2003 statistics are not directly comparable with statistics in previous Integrated Client Data reports.

Please note: because some clients may be represented in multiple categories, counts do not always sum to a total.

Data sources

Client-based service figures come from the DHS Integrated Client Database (ICDb) and include unique individuals who received aid from DHS. For example, if a family of six received food stamp benefits, each of the family members was included in the count. ICDb data comes from 12+ legacy data systems.

Major categories of client-based services

Client-based services are grouped into nine program areas:

- Alcohol/drug treatment and education;
- Child welfare services and benefits;
- Health insurance;
- Assistance for people with developmental disabilities;
- Assistance for seniors and people with physical disabilities;
- Mental health treatment;
- Nutrition counseling and support;
- Self sufficiency services and benefits; and

- Vocational rehabilitation.

Two types of client-based services

- Direct services require ongoing face-to-face contact beyond an initial assessment or eligibility determination. Examples include alcohol/drug and mental health treatment.
- Benefits do not require ongoing face-to-face contact and are usually monetary in nature. Examples include the Oregon Health Plan and food stamps.

For definitions of specific services, including their designation as a direct service or benefit, see Definitions.

Frequency of uploads

Data are uploaded to the ICDB from various data systems on an annual basis.
