Judges will include fire-rescue professionals from around the nation who are active in and approve by, the Transportation Emergency Rescue Committee (TERC).

A day-long event is scheduled and is limited to six teams. This year's event includes two categories for competing teams. The Masters Class is for teams that have previously competed in judged vehicle extrication competitions. The Open Class is for teams which have never competed in a judged extrication competition. The top two teams overall will be eligible to participate in the 2010 national TERC USA competition.

There is plenty of seating available at the venue for those interested in watching the most contemporary vehicle extrication techniques being utilized in the Pacific Northwest. Competing teams from Oregon and Washington will use both hand tools and hydraulic rescue equipment.

If your fire department/fire district has a team that is interested in participating or if you would like additional information please contact Battalion Chief Condon at the City of Dallas Fire Department.
