RULE SUMMARY

As one of its services, DMV provides Real-time Access to Oregon Driving Records (RADR) to qualified customers. The service provides electronic access to three-year employment driving records, three-year non-employment driving records and certified court prints. This amendment establishes customer qualifications and the record fee to access and obtain copies of driving records using the RADR service. This amendment also establishes the fee for obtaining an Identification Card Information Report. Other non-substantive changes were made to update references to DMV systems for accessing records and to simplify and clarify rule language.
