

Construction in the Gorge begins soon

Nineteen bridges on Interstate 84 in the Columbia River Gorge are scheduled for repair or replacement during the next five years.

The Oregon Department of Transportation has two new sources to help keep the area's two million annual visitors informed about construction projects.

- A new Web site has launched to offer regularly updated information: www.oregon.gov.odot/hwy/region1/columbiagorge.

- The most recent project newsletter from ODOT detailing upcoming construction work will arrive in mailboxes next week.
