The Homeland Security Exercise and Evaluation Program (HSEEP) doctrine is undergoing a revision to ensure the program remains relevant to evolving homeland security and emergency management exercise needs. In an effort to address some of the frequently asked questions, the National Exercise Division has provided the responses to frequently asked questions.

1. What changes are included in the revision?
   The doctrine and methodology in the 2007 HSEEP version will remain. Volumes I–III will be consolidated into one document, and duplicative information will be deleted. The revision will provide additional emphases on the corrective action and improvement planning process to ensure progress is made in completing and validating corrective actions.

2. Why is HSEEP being revised?
   The last revision was released in early 2007. Revisions to national programs are an ongoing process.

3. Will I have to retake the HSEEP training course?
   No, you will not need to retake the HSEEP training course.

4. When will the HSEEP revision be available?
   The National Exercise Division is developing a stakeholder engagement strategy and will provide additional information in the coming weeks on the HSEEP Web site.

   Additional updates on the revision will be posted to the HSEEP Web site.
