

Building Trades work area

William P. Lord High School is located at the MacLaren Youth Correctional Facility and is operated by the Willamette Educational Service District.

MacLaren Youth Correctional Facility includes sixteen living units; various vocational training sites, a medical clinic, and recreational areas. The all-male 90-acre MacLaren campus has a capacity of serving approximately 400 youth.

Students enrolled at Lord High School work towards a comprehensive high school diploma. In addition, professional technical courses are offered in welding certification, construction technology, horticulture, landscaping, blue print reading and Auto CAD. Youth have an opportunity to enroll in dual college credit courses offered through Chemeketa Community College and Portland Community College.

The products shown are made by youth at MacLaren Youth Correctional Facility who have been trained in welding, fabrication, metal and wood projects.

This is an opportunity for youth to understand business, develop work ethics, and realize pride and self-esteem. The youth's portion of the revenue generated is used for restitution, child support, or a "fresh start" when leaving incarceration.
