

EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 16-06

PUBLIC RECORDS

Upon assuming the office of Governor in February 2015, I offered a package of bills to the Legislative Assembly relating to ethics and governmental accountability. A key component of that package was Senate Bill 9, which mandated that an audit be conducted of state agencies' responses to public records requests with respect to issues of cost, timeliness and procedures. The Legislature approved Senate Bill 9 and I signed it into law on June 15, 2015.

The Secretary of State's Audits Division has conducted the audit required by Senate Bill 9, and on November, 2015, released the audit results in a document entitled "State Agencies Respond Well to Routine Public Records Requests, but Struggle with Complex Requests and Emerging Technologies." (The audit and the audit results are hereinafter referred to collectively as the "Audit.") The Audit examined a sampling of large, medium and small agencies and found that for the most part Oregon state agencies handle routine requests well and struggle with complex requests.

The Audit also revealed other issues that affect agencies' ability to respond to requests such as retention policies, changing technologies and fee structures.

The Audit included specific recommendations, including a recommendation that the Oregon Department of Administrative Services ("DAS") create standardized rates for copying and standardized rates for employee labor among state agencies in order to resolve some of the inconsistency in public records requests fees statewide.

The Audit further recommended that DAS be empowered to provide guidance to agencies regarding communication technologies as they relate to public records.

The Audit found, further, that the variation in responses to public records requests is due, at least in part, to a lack of statewide policies and guidelines with regard to record types created by emergent technology, a standardized fee structure, and automated processes and procedures that make records retention arduous and subjective.

It is also clear that as a result of the rise of modern communications technology, the volume of records subject to search and potential legal review significantly impacts the ability for an agency to respond in a timely manner and causes concern and mistrust to grow in the public's view.
