

ELIXIR

Elixir craft distillery, founded in 2011 by Italian brothers Andrea and Mario Loreto in Eugene, Oregon, is dedicated to revivifying traditional spirits in the Italian tradition using the finest all-natural ingredients.

All of our spirits are composed of pure McKenzie River water and grain neutral spirit. One of the cleanest streams in the country, the McKenzie River originates from seven springs in the west slope of the Oregon High Cascades, an historic volcanic mountain range in central Oregon. Snow melt and rain water slowly filter through one thousand-meter thick basaltic volcanic rock for between five and sixty years before joining the river, thus ensuring the water is wholly pristine.

Unspoiled McKenzie River water is only half of the story, however. At Elixir®, we use the purest grain neutral spirit, filtering it several times through activated charcoal and crushed lava rock and ultimately running it through specialized copper tubing to eliminate any remaining impurities.

Our time-intensive filtering process is worth its weight in gold: our distinctive process successfully strips grain neutral spirit of its “fire” while preserving its natural warmth. We carefully test each batch prior to bottling to ensure the artful array of ingredients has matured into a perfect mosaic of flavors resulting in all-natural liqueurs of rare purity and inimitable flavor.

It is fitting that the noble iris flower has served as the official emblem of Florence and the aristocracy since Renaissance times. Iris celebrates this distinguished history in a sophisticated botanical liqueur derived from pure iris root. Iris is crafted with all-natural ingredients with no additives or coloring.

ELIXIR

Calisaya marries the New World with the Old. Handmade at Elixir® craft distillery in Eugene, Oregon, this all-natural cinchona-based liqueur follows the Italian proprietor's centuries-old Italian recipe. This modern spin on the classic Italian amaro (bitter) makes a delightful digestive or aperitif. It can be enjoyed straight or mixed with spirits in a range of cocktails. Mixologists value Calisaya® for its delicate bitter note, exceptional purity, and high alcohol content.
