TO ALL LOCAL GOVERNMENTS, PLANNING BODIES AND PUBLIC LIBRARIES

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Enclosed herewith is a copy of the appropriate section of the Statewide Inventory of Historic Properties as expanded under special contract by Stephen Dow Beckham in 1976.

We hope and trust that the Inventory will assist you in the development of your comprehensive plans and other matters. It should be remembered that the Inventory is not complete in this form. It will be revised and enlarged continually. Moreover, archeological sites are not included for purposes of site protection. In many cases, properties which have been entered into the National Register of Historic Places are not included. We are including as an addendum a listing of properties in your area which were included in the Inventory prior to 1976.

If questions regarding the Inventory arise, please contact us at 378-5001.

Sincerely,

Paul B. Hartwig
Historic Preservation Coordinator

NATIONAL REGISTER OF HISTORIC PLACES:

The National Register of Historic Places is the official list of the nation's cultural resources worthy of preservation. It is maintained by the National Park Service under authority of the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966. The list contains districts, sites, archeological sites, buildings, structures and objects of national, state or local significance. National Historic Landmarks are automatically included. A cumulative listing of all National Register properties is published annually in the February issue of the Federal Register, the regular Congressional publication. Under certain circumstances, National Register properties are eligible for federal preservation assistance.

DEFINITIONS OF PRESERVATION TERMS AS USED BY THE NATIONAL PARK SERVICE:

Preservation is the process of sustaining the form and extent of a structure essentially as it now exists. Preservation aims at halting further deterioration and providing structural stability but does not contemplate significant rebuilding.

Restoration is the process of accurately recovering the form and details of a property as it appeared at a particular period of time by means of removal of later work and the replacement of missing original work.

Reconstruction is the process of reproducing by new construction the exact form and detail of a vanished structure, or part of it, as it appeared at a specific period of time. Reconstruction should be undertaken only when the property to be reconstructed is essential for understanding and interpreting the value of a historical district and sufficient historical documentation exists to insure an exact reproduction of the original.

Rehabilitation is the process of returning a property to a state of utility, through repair or alteration, which makes possible an efficient contemporary use. In rehabilitation, those portions of the property which are important in illustrating historic and cultural values are preserved or restored.

- - - - -

National Parks - Outstanding, relatively spacious land and water areas under federal ownership. They usually contain a diversity of scenic, scientific and other values and support a broad range of visitor-use programs.

National Monuments - Outstanding land and water areas, usually under federal ownership. They generally contain lesser acreage than National Parks and support a narrower range of visitor-use programs. Their purpose is to preserve resources of special scientific significance.

National Historic Sites - Properties of outstanding historical value to the nation as a whole. They may be under federal, state or local ownership. In the latter cases, the National Park Service acts in an advisory capacity.

National Memorials - Properties commemorating historic events and/or personages of exceptional significance to the nation. Usually they are under National Park Service jurisdiction, but ownership may be mixed.

National Historic Landmarks - Outstanding examples of the nation's historical and/or cultural patrimony. They are evaluated and recommended for designation by the Advisory Board on National Parks, Historic Sites, Buildings, and Monuments. Federal ownership is not implied. Ownership may be public or private, but owner must agree to maintain property in accord with accepted preservation precepts if he accepts designation. Landmark status offers higher priority in the distribution of grants-in-aid under the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966 and is acknowledged by a bronze plaque and a certificate from the Secretary of the Interior.

National Survey of Historic Sites and Buildings - Conducted by the National Park Service under authority of the Historic Sites Act of 1935 for purposes of identifying historic and prehistoric places of national significance. The Survey forms the basis of National Historic Landmark designations.

HABS - Historic American Buildings Survey - Initiated by the National Park Service in 1933 for purposes of assembling a national collection of detailed records of historically and architecturally significant buildings. Conducted in cooperation with the American Institute of Architects and the Library of Congress.

HAER - Historic American Engineering Record - Established by the National Park Service in 1969 for purposes of documenting historic engineering, industrial and technological works. Conducted in cooperation with the American Society of Civil Engineers and the Library of Congress.

Cultural Resources In Oregon

To date, some 70% of the State of Oregon has been surveyed by historians to identify historic sites and buildings important to Oregon's past. At the same time, only some three percent of the state has been surveyed by archeologists. The results of these cultural resource surveys indicate that Oregon contains some 2,500 historic sites worthy of placement on the Statewide Inventory and perhaps some 120,000 archeological sites, for a density of about 1.3 cultural sites per square mile.

The large difference between numbers of historic and archeologic sites is merely a reflection of the fact that Indians have lived here for some 20,000 years while Euro-Americans have been in Oregon only about 173 years. The large gap between seventy percent and three percent in completeness of surveys is due to several factors: 1) archeological sites are "buried" to a greater degree and therefore more difficult to locate 2) historians have written records to utilize, often telling them where to look 3) the Indian societies were pre-literate and most of their oral traditions telling of old village site locations were never recorded by early settlers.

Since the year of 1906 the federal government has passed several laws and executive orders in order to try and preserve the cultural remains of both Indian and early Euro-American history. The government realized that the native cultures had been largely destroyed and their cultural remains were likewise disappearing under the shovel of "pot-hunters", the construction of towns, and the activities of road builders, loggers, miners and others.

Each archeologic site is like a book of which only one copy exists. Properly excavated and analyzed, a site can tell who lived there, when they lived there, how large the group was, what the people ate, the climate at the time, the type of social organization the group practiced, average life spans, religious practices and even some of the diseases they suffered from. If this site is destroyed, either through the purposeful digging of relic hunters or through the accidental activities of house, road, sewer line, water line, or other developers, then the book, which is public property has been burned.

 Address Fossil, Oregon
 Original Use Commercial
 Date of Construction Prior to 1895

Physical description of property and statement of historical significance:

This unknown commercial building, perhaps once a bowling alley (as recalled by local residents), stands on the east side of Highway 19 at the junction with Carter Hill Road in Mayville, Oregon. This building has a gable roof and false front on its west (front) elevation. The windows are boarded up as is the main entrance. The exterior is shiplap. Some years ago the building was raised for the placing of a concrete foundation. The structure is deserted and is in poor condition.

Local residents recall that this building was a bowling alley and perhaps a saloon. Writing in 1952, however, Miriam C. Thouvenel and Lovena S. Palmer noted: "Most of the Gilliam County towns had several saloons, but Mayville would never issue a license for operation of one." In a photograph of Mayville taken in 1895 this building was standing at this site (the photo is on display in the Mayville post office and general store).

Physical description of property and statement of historical significance:

The Edmund A. Stinchfield house stands on the east side of Highway 19 in the south part of Hayville, Oregon. This two story, wood frame house has a hip roof with belvedere in place. A single brick chimney with corbelled top rises through the flat section on the top of the roof. The house has boxed eaves with decorative brackets and a band of vertical milled boards which encircle it. The windows are one-over-one, double hung sash and some are set in pairs. A verandah runs along the north, W. and E. elevations of the first story. The exterior of the house is covered with shiplap. The building is in poor condition and is unoccupied. Nearby stand a fruit cellar and other buildings.

Edmund A. Stinchfield (1853-1935) was a farmer who owned a large parcel of land in southern Gilliam County. On his farm and near this house is the hewn log structure erected prior to 1834 by E. A. Evans (see file sheet). Stinchfield and his wife Phoebe (1850-1933) are buried in the Hayville Cemetery. A son, Fred A. Stinchfield (1889-1973) is also buried in the family plot.

The John F. Reisacher Building is a two story, brick structure which stands at the southwest corner of Main and Gilliam in Condon, Oregon. This building has three bays of one-over-one, double hung sash windows set in pairs on its second story of the east (front) elevation. The building has brick quoins on the second story. Originally this structure had two store sections on its first floor with each entry bay flanked by a pair of iron posts. The first floor elevation has been altered.

John F. Reisacher established a harness shop in Condon in 1897 and that year began fifteen years of service as postmaster in the town. To construct this building in 1905 Reisacher imported bricks which arrived on the first train to arrive in the community. When this structure was completed, Reisacher moved his harness shop and the post office into the building. The harness shop was located in the north half of the building; the post office was in the center; and John Jackson, a merchant, occupied the south part of the structure.

The residential section has a projecting window bay on the first floor of the east (front) elevation. The windows are one-over-one, double hung sash. The store section, which has a wing on its north elevation, is of one story, while the residence has an upper half story.

This building was standing in 1895 when a photograph was made of Mayville (a copy is on exhibit in this building). At that time it was used, as at present, as a residence, general store, and post office.

Physical description of property and statement of historical significance:

The Bank Block was erected in 1906. This two story building, constructed of dressed stone on concrete, stands at the northwest corner of Main and Gilliam streets in Condon, Oregon. The building, which faces east, has one-over-one, double hung sash windows in its second story. The fenestration has been altered on the first story.

This structure was erected to house the Condon National Bank. Frank Hurlburt was the president. The bank closed in 1923. Its rival in this town was the First National Bank of Condon, founded by Nathan Farnsworth in 1899 as the First National Bank.

*It is possible that this building is constructed of concrete blocks which simulate stone.
