

Management-Labor Advisory Committee (MLAC)

Working together for a balanced workers' compensation system

About MLAC

What is MLAC?

The Management-Labor Advisory Committee (MLAC) provides a forum for business and labor to meet, explore, and resolve issues involving Oregon's workers' compensation system.

Created by the Oregon Legislature in 1990, MLAC plays a key role in maintaining balance and fairness in a system that can often be adversarial.

What we do

MLAC's work includes:

- Reviewing proposed legislation
- Advising the governor and legislature
- Hosting public meetings and hearings
- Issuing reports and recommendations

Our focus

MLAC members are committed to these shared values:

- Balance and fairness
- Adequacy of benefits commensurate with the severity of injury
- Affordability: Supporting a healthy Oregon business climate
- Efficiency: Streamlined and easy to use
- Stability and flexibility:
- Predictable, yet adaptable when needed

Why it matters

MLAC helps shape a workers' compensation system that protects injured workers while supporting Oregon's economic health. By bringing labor and business together, MLAC ensures that all voices are heard.
