Open house set for Tuesday about TV Highway

ODOT and Hillsboro are seeking public input for a corridor study

ODOT and the city of Hillsboro will host an open house Tuesday to gather public input on plan to improve an 8.5-mile stretch of Tualatin Valley Highway.

The TV Highway Corridor Plan meeting will be from 4 to 7 p.m. in Room 113 B-C at the Hillsboro Civic Center, 150 E. Main St., Hillsboro. The meeting offers an opportunity to meet with the project team and share ideas on shaping the plan, which will work to make the highway easier and safer for drivers, cyclists and pedestrians.

The plan focuses on the corridor connecting Hillsboro with Beaverton and passing through Aloha and Reedville. More than 40,000 cars share the road every day with pedestrians, bicyclists and mass transit users.

The plan will consider future options for the corridor, looking at traffic management, safety, key intersections, freight mobility and economic development.

More information – and a survey seeking public comment – can be found at www.tvhighway.org.
