OSBN Auto-Verification System: Frequently Asked Questions

With the end of plastic license cards, employers need to verify a nurse or nursing assistant’s license status online. Existing online verification systems include the National Council for State Boards of Nursing (NCSBN) Nursys® system, or the Board of Nursing’s online system that allows individual license lookups.

To make the process of verifying licenses easier and more efficient for employers, the Board has developed a new automated verification system capable of keeping track of several licenses at once.

What It Is
The new automated verification system provides daily, weekly or monthly notifications to an employer of the current license status for all of its nurses or nursing assistants. It’s an easy-to-use, low-cost subscription service that automatically notifies an employer when a change occurs to one of their employees’ license statuses, including any current discipline, and when licenses are due to renew.

How It Works
The auto-verification service is available for registered public users through the Board’s online services section of its website (www.oregon.gov/OSBN).

Once users establish a public user account, they may select daily, weekly or monthly updates of their licensee lists. Updates will be sent to the user’s registered e-mail address(s). These updates include any changes in a licensee’s license status (active or expired), expected renewal date and discipline status, since the subscription began.

For user convenience, Board staff will upload a user’s initial list of multiple licensees at no charge; subsequent changes to a user list must be made by that user, via the easy-to-use online interface. Contact OSBN Database Administrator Matt Hodson at matt.d.hodson@state.or.us to establish your initial list.

Annual subscription fees vary depending on the number of licenses to be monitored. Fee table is:

The second message lists all licensees entered as part of the subscription, along with the current licensure status of the licensee. ("" indicates that the license is expired.)

Subsequent messages will include the licensee’s license number, name, and a description of any changes that occurred to license records included in the subscription within the selected period (daily, weekly, or monthly).
