The Pacific City airport is a vital part of the Pacific City and surrounding coastal communities. The Coast Guard helicopter practices landing there on a daily basis. They had a mechanical problem and were able to land at Pacific City airport in which I'm sure saved this multimillion dollar aircraft. There are regular Medical emergencies which require the Life flight to land there to rescue people who have fallen from the Cape, etc. This airport is A central point between two major hospitals, which is vital to save lives.
