The airfield at Pacific City (KPFC) is a great public resource on the west coast. Please continue to fund and support it. I was there just last month for my first visit, how cool. What a great place, and with amenities like the bicycles & shed, restrooms, easy transient parking, etc. My thanks to the State of Oregon and partners like the Recreational Aviation Foundation and the Friends of Pacific City Airport groups! I signed in by text on the Oregon register and shared a few pictures, and also provided comments recently to the RAF's Airfield Guide. While I was on the ground in August, another single engine Cessna landed and offloaded three generations of a pilot family... grandpa, dad, and pilot-to-be grandson and grand daughter; that was refreshing to see GA is alive and kicking and exploring these special places. And in the case of Pacific City, bringing people there is a win-win for the aviation community and the public.
