Executive Summary

The Justice Reinvestment Initiative was launched with House Bill 3194 (2013) and extended by Senate Bill 1510 (2022). The primary component, the Justice Reinvestment Grant Program (JRP) funds counties to provide community-based supervision and services for people convicted of non-violent crimes (drug, property, and driving crimes). The goal is to reduce prison use and recidivism, while protecting public safety.

The Justice Reinvestment Equity Program (JREP) was created by Senate Bill 1510 (2022) to establish and support culturally specific organizations and culturally responsive services as part of the Justice Reinvestment Initiative.

Senate Bill 1510 (2022) requires the Criminal Justice Commission (CJC) to report the following:

1. The amount and percentage of JRP funds provided to counties;
2. The specific sanctions, services, and programs funded by the JRP;
3. The population served by JRP funds;
4. The amount and percentage of JRP funds awarded to victims' service providers who provide culturally specific or culturally responsive services;
5. The amount of JREP funds awarded to culturally specific organizations and culturally responsive service providers.

The statistics provided in this report utilize JREP awards provided by the Northwest Health Foundation, and JRP county budget requests for the 2023-2025 biennium, as approved by the JRP Grant Review Committee and adopted by the CJC. Curry, Grant, and Jefferson County opted not to submit funding applications and therefore will not receive JRP awards. Clackamas County was placed on provisional status and will receive their first year of funding before re-applying for the second year. Table 1 shows the amount and percentage of JRP funds awarded to each county.

Program Funding

Statewide, approximately 40% of JRP funds support supervision and sanctions. This includes salaries and benefits for 60 parole and probation officers. 34% of JRP funds support client services including addiction and mental health treatment, shelter, and other support. Most of those funds, over $13,000,000, are distributed to contractual service providers. Trial and court costs, including deputy DAs and public defense, receive approximately 13% of the overall funding while program support including training and administration also receive 13% of the overall funding. Table 2 shows the JRP funding awards by category.

Population

The state does not collect figures on precisely who benefited from which JRP-funded programs; however, based on eligibility criteria, we estimate that approximately 7,400 individuals may have been served by these programs across the state in 2023. Jackson County had the largest number of potential clients, while Multnomah County's population was the most racially diverse. Table 3 shows the population potentially served by JRP funding.

Victims Services

Counties must provide 10% of all JRP funds to victims' service providers. Nearly all the providers, accounting for over 87% of all funding, provide culturally responsive^{xii} services. In contrast only eight providers indicated that they are culturally specific^{xiii} organizations; in aggregate these eight organizations will receive approximately $630,000 in the 2023-2025 biennium. Table 5 shows funding for victims' services providers.

JREP Funding

The Justice Reinvestment Equity Program, which received $10,000,000 in funding in the 2022 legislative session to be distributed by the Northwest Health Foundation, awarded funding to 17 different organizations across the state. 10 of these organizations are culturally specific and the remainder provide culturally responsive services. The counties and communities served can be viewed in Figures 19 through 22. Tables 6 and 7 list the culturally specific organizations and organizations providing culturally responsive services, respectively.

About this Report

Justice Reinvestment funding allocations for the 2023 – 2025 biennium are presented as specified in section 28 of Senate Bill 1510 (2022), which extends House Bill 3194 (2013) to 2024. Senate Bill 344 (2023) extended Justice Reinvestment to 2033. Investments are shown by county, by the type of programs they support, and by the communities they serve.

Justice Reinvestment

Providing community-based supervision, services, and sanctions for people convicted of non-violent crimes including drug, property, and driving crimes.

Intended to REDUCE RECIDIVISM
REDUCE PRISON USE
PROTECT PUBLIC SAFETY
HOLD INDIVIDUALS
ACCOUNTABLE

The Justice Reinvestment Initiative

was created by the state to reduce prison use and recidivism for people convicted of non-violent crimes (drug, property, & driving crimes). The initiative consists of two parts:

Part 1: The Justice Reinvestment

Program (JRP) is a grant program administered by the Oregon Criminal Justice Commission (CJC) and designed to financially support Oregon counties in planning, implementing, and expanding initiatives that reduce recidivism and prison population while improving public safety and holding individuals accountable. JRP was created by the passage of HB 3194 (2013), the Justice Reinvestment Act.

Part 2: The Justice Reinvestment Equity

Program (JREP) was established in SB 1510 (2022) to provide funding for culturally specific and culturally responsive services that support the goals of Justice Reinvestment. Funding for this program is distributed by CJC to the Northwest Health Foundation Fund to provide subgrants to culturally responsive^{xii} and/or culturally specific^{xiii} organizations.

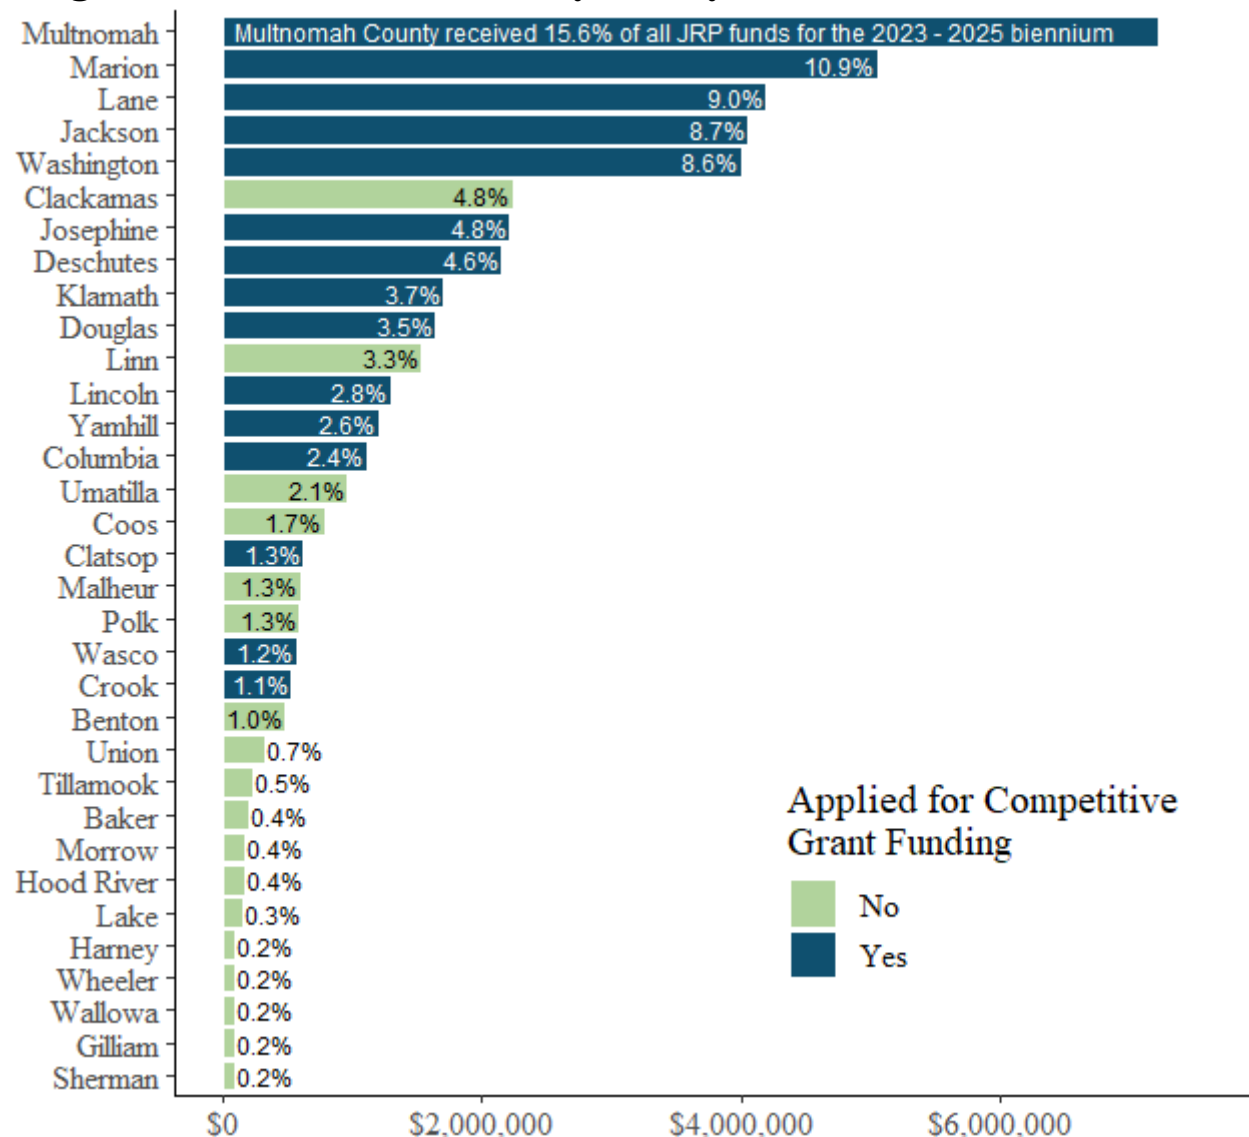

Justice Reinvestment Funding

There are two mechanisms by which JRP funds are distributed:

The formula grant awards a fixed amount to each county. For the 2023-2025 biennium, 33 counties submitted formula grant applicationsⁱ; all were accepted by the Grant Review Committeeⁱⁱ. In the 2023-2025 biennium, 15 counties also applied for a competitive grant award, and all are receiving fundingⁱⁱⁱ.

Justice Reinvestment Programs

Counties invest in a variety of services and programs to meet the needs of their clients. Investments are categorized using each county's budget line items in their 2023-2025 formula and competitive^{iv} grant applications^v. The 10% of JRP funds that are set aside for victims' services are not included in these figures. Figure 2 summarizes these investments by category.^{vi}

Supervision

JRP investments in supervision include parole and probation officer salaries, electronic monitoring, jail beds, and a variety of supporting personnel and materials. These investments support community-based supervision for pretrial^{vii}, downward departure^{viii}, and reentry^{ix} programs. Additional details can be found in Table 2.

Figure 3: The amount and percent each county spent of their JRP award on supervision (larger counties)

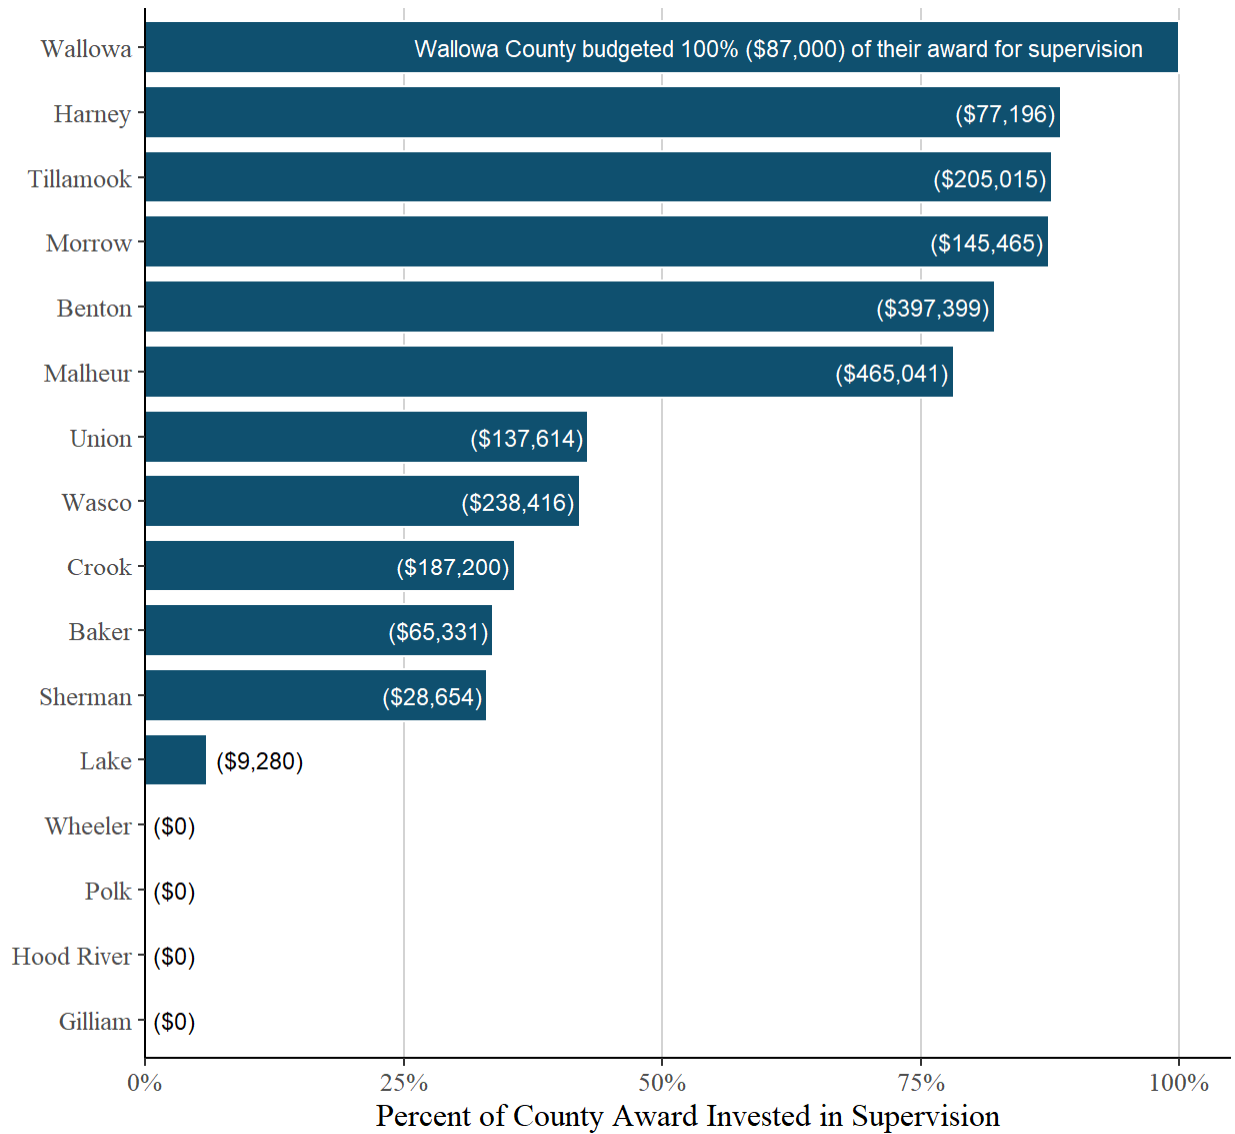

Figure 4: The amount and percent each county spent of their JRP award on supervision (smaller counties)

Justice Reinvestment Programs

Client Services

Justice Reinvestment Programs fund a variety of services to help clients successfully complete their community supervision and improve their lives. Of the $15,683,504 provided for client services statewide, 84% goes to community organizations to provide treatment, shelter, and support to clients, while 16% remains with county community corrections to provide these services.

JRP investments in services for people convicted of drug, property, or driving crimes and on community supervision:

- Mental Health
- Alcohol & Drug
- Behavioral Health

- Transitional Housing
- Shelter
- Rent & Utility Assistance

- Peer Mentors
- Education
- Employment Assistance
- Bus passes/transportation

Justice Reinvestment Programs

Client Services

Justice Reinvestment Program investments in client services for people charged with or convicted of non-violent drug, property, or driving crimes and who are on community-based monitoring or supervision as part of a pretrial^{vii}, downward departure^{viii}, or reentry^{ix} program. Additional details can be found in Table 2.

Figure 6: The amount and percent each county spent of their JRP award on client services (smaller counties)

Justice Reinvestment Programs

Trial & Court

Justice Reinvestment Program investments in trial and court costs include deputy district attorney salaries, public defense, specialty court funding, and other court-related expenses. Additional details can be found in Table 2.

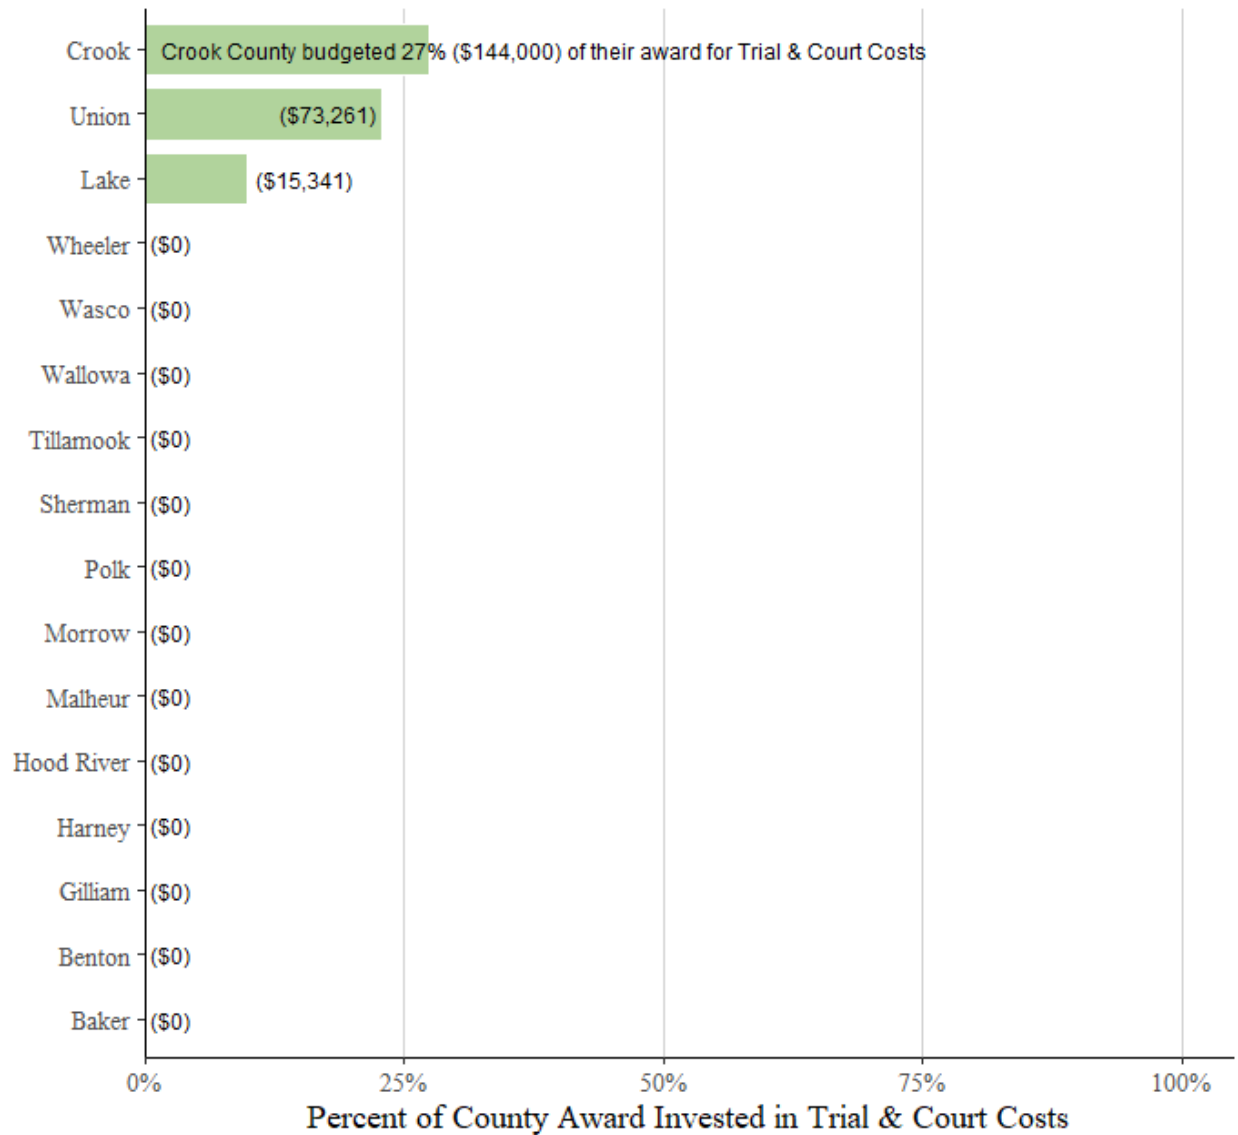

Figure 8: Amount and percent each county spent of their JRP award on trial & court investments (smaller counties)

Justice Reinvestment Programs

Program Support

Justice Reinvestment Program investments in program support include administrative costs, training, some supplies, and other personnel and materials that support JRP programs. Additional details can be found in Table 2.

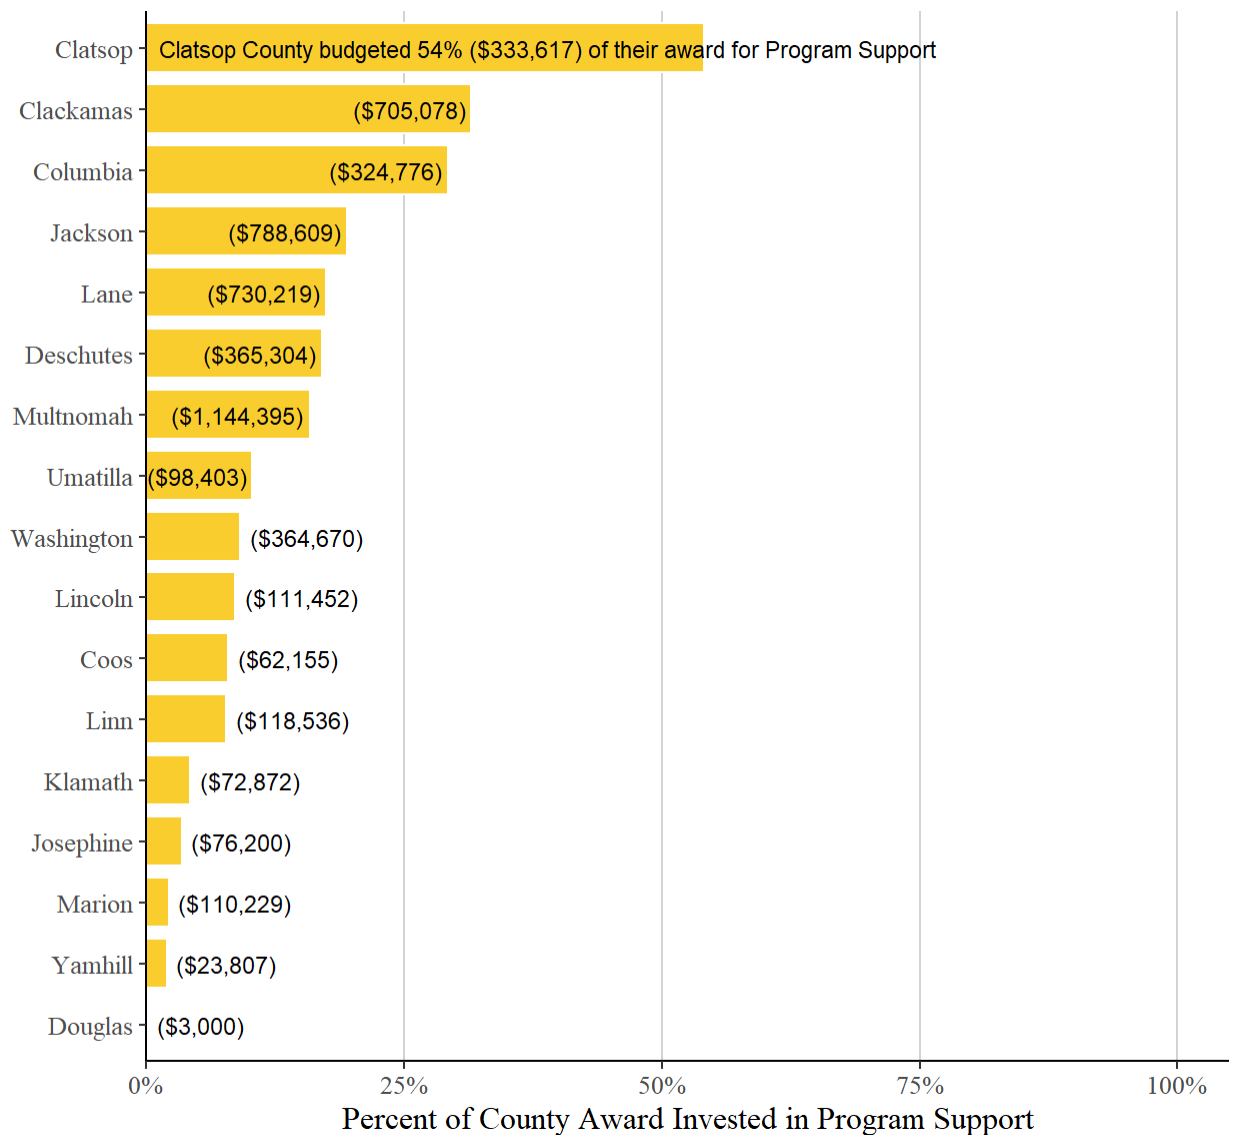

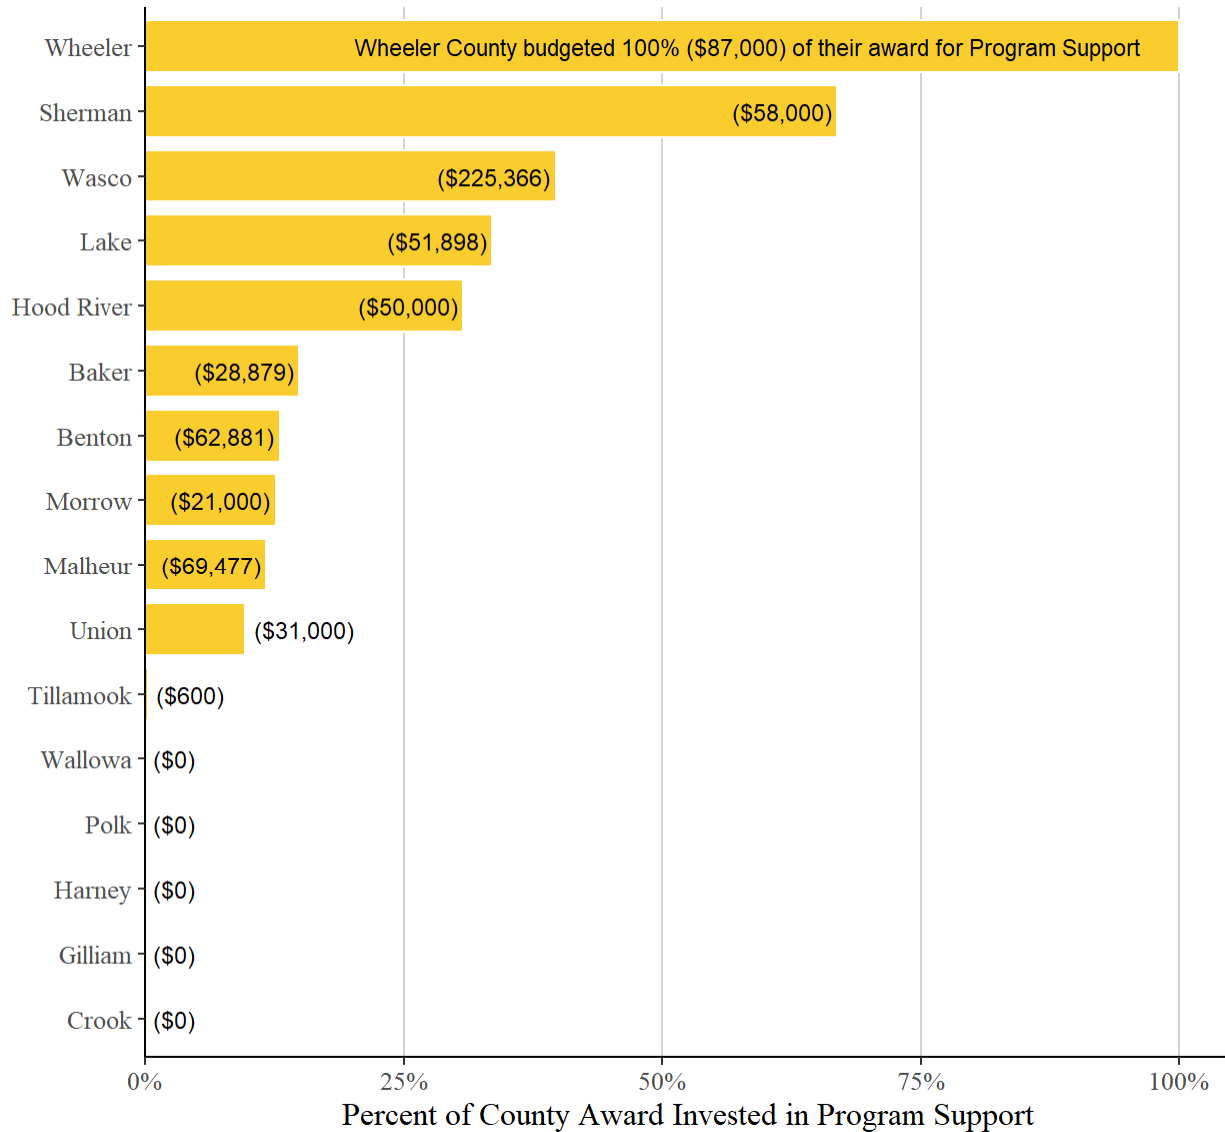

Figure 10: Amount and percent each county spent of their JRP award on program support (smaller counties)

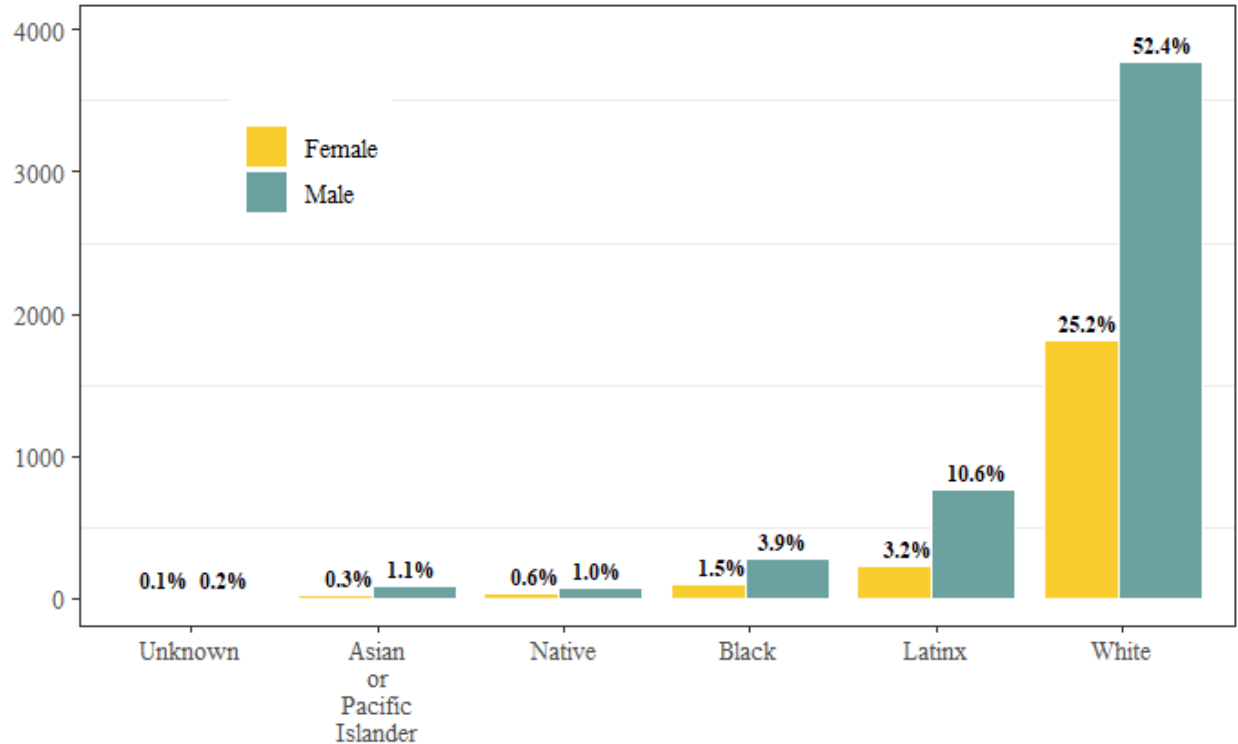

Justice Reinvestment Population Served

The Justice Reinvestment Program is designed to serve people who have been convicted of a non-violent felony and could be or were sentenced to prison. The gender and race/ethnicity of individuals who met this basic qualification and were eligible to be served in 2023 by JRP funds for each county are summarized below. Population estimates are based on Department of Corrections supervision data and include any individual for whom the DOC data indicates:

- They were convicted of a non-violent drug, property, or driving crime, and
- Their community supervision or monitoring occurred in one of the 33 JRP county participants, and
- They were admitted to parole or probation within the past 5 years and do not appear to have completed their supervision;^x or
- They ended community supervision in 2023; or
- They began community supervision in 2023.

Gender

Figure 12 and Figure 13 show the number of people eligible to be served by JRP-funded programs by county and gender^{xi}. The counties are arranged from the highest total number of eligible people (Jackson County) to the lowest, separated by counties with larger and smaller populations. Details can be found in Table 3.

Race & Ethnicity

Figures 14 and 15 show the racial/ethnic composition of people convicted of non-violent felonies for property, drug, or driving crimes who were under community supervision in 2023 and eligible to benefit from JRP funding. Details can be found in Table 3. To view CJC’s Racial Disparity Tool, which quantifies racial disparity in prison diversion by race and county, please visit the Justice Reinvestment Dashboard.

Justice Reinvestment Victims' Services

of all JRP awards (Formula and Competitive Grants) must be spent on providing community-based services to victims of crime.

$5,429,860

Total JRP funding for victims' services. Services provide shelter, support, and legal services to crime victims.

$4,682,087

The amount of victims' services funding awarded to organizations that provide culturally responsive^{xii} services to meet the needs of crime victims.

$692,209

The amount of victims' services funding awarded to culturally specific^{xiii} organizations. These organizations may also provide culturally responsive services.

Justice Reinvestment Victims' Services

Culturally Responsive Services

Figures 16 and 17 show what counties have invested in culturally responsive programs for victims' services. In most counties, all victims' services investments are for culturally responsive service providers. Details can be found in Table 5.

Figure 16: Amount and percent of county investments in culturally responsive victims' service providers (larger counties)

Justice Reinvestment Victims' Services

Culturally Specific Services

Figure 18 shows which counties have invested in culturally specific programs for victims' services. These programs are less common; many service providers are designed to support specifically women and children from a wide variety of backgrounds. Details can be found in Table 5.

Figure 18: Amount and percent of county investments in culturally specific victims' service providers

Justice Reinvestment Equity Program

The Justice Reinvestment Equity Program funds culturally specific organizations and culturally responsive service providers for a wide variety of purposes.^{xiv}

The Northwest Health Foundation awards funds to 18 organizations across the state. Figure 19 shows counties served by culturally specific organizations. Details can be found in Table 6.

Data Sources & Methodology

Justice Reinvestment Program funding is appropriated by the legislature each biennium. For the past several biennia, the legislature has appropriated “current service levels” of funding for both the Formula and Competitive Grants.

As a new program still operating with its first round of funding, the Justice Reinvestment Equity Program has only received a one-time appropriation from the legislature of $10 million in 2022.

Categorization of county JRP investments uses the description, program name, and program type provided by counties in their proposed budgets. The line items are parsed in R to facilitate consistent categorization across counties. Specific line items can be found on the County Programs page of CJC’s Justice Reinvestment Dashboard.

Categorization of JRP victims’ services providers as culturally-responsive or culturally-specific uses information provided by counties and by the providers.

Categorization of JREP funding recipients, as well as their geographic reach and culturally-specific or culturally-responsive characteristics, are provided by Northwest Health Foundation based on feedback from funded organizations.

ⁱ Jefferson, Curry, and Grant County did not submit applications to receive JRP formula grant funding. The funding amount legislatively designated for those counties will be reallocated to participating counties.

ⁱⁱ Provisional Status: The JRP Grant Review Committee (GRC) may recommend provisional status to counties when one or more requirements or performance metrics has not been fully met. Counties awarded provisional status receive their first year of funding and support from CJC staff to help address the concerns raised by the GRC. The second year of funding is applied for and awarded when the GRC’s concerns have been addressed. In the 2023 – 2025 biennium, Clackamas County was placed on provisional status.

ⁱⁱⁱ In the 2023-2025 biennium, counties requested $11,702,592 for the competitive grant; however, the legislature made available only $7,277,919.

^{iv} Competitive grant award figures were updated in February, 2024, after initial publication of this report, to reflect the finalized awards approved by the Criminal Justice Commission in December 2023. These figures were delayed due to protests that remained active at the time of publication.

^v Categories used to sort budget items include:

- Supervision, including parole and probation officers, jail sanction costs, electronic monitoring and other related costs for community supervision;

- Client Services, including housing and other costs related to shelter, mental health, addiction, and other treatments, employment and education support, mentors, and other service costs;
 - Trial and Court, including deputy DA, specialty court, public defender, and some restorative justice costs;
 - Program Support, including administrative, training, and program management costs.

^{vi} JRP Program Categories:

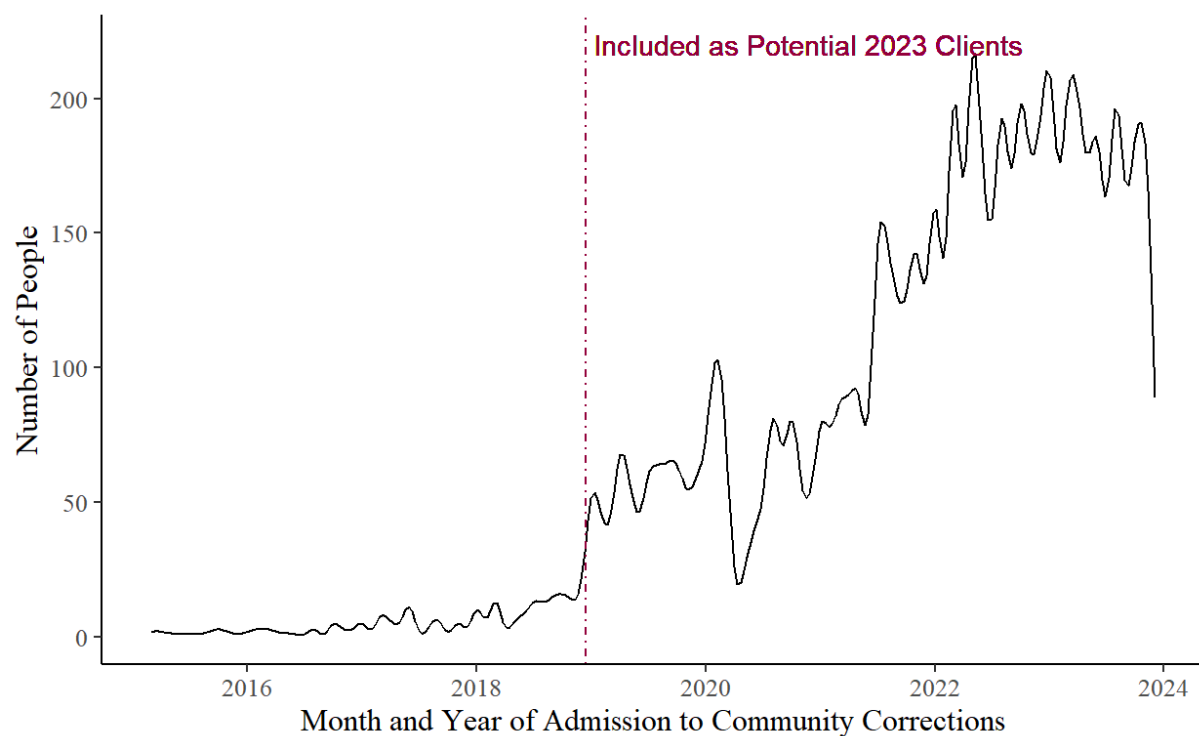

1. Supervision includes parole and probation officer salaries, electronic and other forms of monitoring, certain jail costs, and work crew expenses.
2. Services includes mental health, behavioral health, and addiction treatment, housing and shelter, education, job training, and peer mentors.
3. Trial & Court includes deputy DA salaries, public defense expenditures, specialty court costs, and other court-related expenses.
4. Program Support includes administrative costs, training and associated travel, supplies, and other program support costs.

^{vii} “Pretrial” refers to the time between when someone is arrested or charged with a crime and when their case is resolved. Pretrial programs funded by JRP are meant to give people a chance to remain in the community instead of being held in custody while they await trial. When someone is not held in custody pretrial, the likelihood that they will ultimately receive a prison sentence is decreased.

^{viii} “Downward Departure” means a person could have gone to prison but didn’t or went to prison for a shorter period of time than they could have under sentencing guidelines.

^{ix} “Reentry” refers to the transition from prison back into the community. Reentry programs are intended to reduce recidivism by providing people with the skills, support, and supervision they need to increase the likelihood that their reentry is successful.

^x This group may include people who are no longer on community supervision but for whom a release date was not available. Approximately 21% of the total people included in the population estimate entered community corrections prior to 2022.

^{xi} Gender is provided by the Department of Corrections intake data.

^{xii} “Culturally responsive” programs are defined in section 18 of S.B. 1510 (2022) as a program that is respectful of, and relevant to, the beliefs, practices, cultures and linguistic needs of diverse consumer or client populations and communities whose members identify as having particular cultural or linguistic affiliations by virtue of their place of birth, ancestry or ethnic origin, religion, preferred language or language spoken at home. A culturally responsive service has the capacity to respond to the issues of diverse communities and require knowledge and capacity at systemic, organizational, professional and individual levels of intervention.

^{xiii} “Culturally specific” programs are defined in section 18 of S.B. 1510 (2022) as a program that serves a particular cultural community, that is primarily staffed and led by members of that community and that demonstrates self-advocacy, positive cultural identity, and intimate knowledge of the lived experience of the community.

^{xiv} Purposes supported by JREP culturally specific organizations and culturally responsive programs:

- (a) Mental health and substance use disorder treatment;
- (b) Maternal health services;
- (c) Trauma-informed restorative justice services;
- (d) Violence reduction programs, including but not limited to violence interruption mentors or after-school programs focused on art, music, theater or dance;

- (e) Crisis intervention without police involvement;
 - (f) Reentry programs that are connected to education, workforce development and transitional supports;
 - (g) Long-term supportive housing;
 - (h) Support for setting aside conviction records;
 - (i) Pretrial release support;
 - (j) Services for victims, including incarcerated victims or victims on pretrial release;
 - (k) Programs for persons, and families of persons, who are currently or were formerly incarcerated;
 - (L) Programs designed to reduce recidivism and reduce contact with the criminal justice system;
 - (m) Programs for persons who have been impacted by police violence, either directly or through a family member; or
 - (n) Planning grants and technical assistance to support the development of new culturally specific services, or to strengthen existing services, that are aligned with the other purposes described in this subsection.
