Are you passionate about developing the Early Childhood Workforce?

In order to fully realize the opportunities for young children, an early childhood educator must be deeply grounded in the science of early learning...." Alvin (2019)

Early childhood job opportunities are expected to grow over the next several years, according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. Since the pandemic, an increasing number of states are recognizing early care and education as a public good, working toward beginning or expanding state funded child care and pay parity with K-12 teachers. Going hand in hand with fair compensation, educators also need pathways to early childhood degrees and ongoing professional learning supports to implement best practices.

Early Childhood Education Workforce Resources Career Navigators Awards/Stipends Paid / Unpaid Work Experience Scholarships/Grants Fields Education Social Services Public Policy Mental Health Adult Education Entrepreneurship Education Child & Family Studies Educational Leadership Curriculum & Instruction Early Intervention / Early Childhood Special Education Career Technical Education Careers Researcher Trainer Child Care Business Owner College Faculty Home Visitor Mental Health Consultant Kindergarten Teacher Speech Pathologist

These are just some of the many career options, please scan QR code to view more!

