The Oregon Legislature’s 2022 session came to a close on March 4, delivering a number of important gains for Oregon Department of Human Services (ODHS) and the people we serve. ODHS’ legislative priorities for 2022 reflected three agency-wide goals — strengthening our foundations, responding to emergencies, and creating the future of human services. As you’ll read in the summaries that follow, the session resulted in investments that will advance our work in all three areas.

Of particular note is House Bill 5202, a far-reaching spending package that will support projects around the state. The bill contains more than a dozen ODHS budget adjustments and program investments that will enable great progress toward our goals over the remainder of the biennium. Key among these was $26.1 million for Self-Sufficiency Programs to make important improvements to the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) program in Oregon. From issuing new clothing allowances to expanding program access, the funds will activate much-needed, upstream solutions for families — and unlock the largest increase to the TANF benefit in our state’s history.

Children and families across Oregon will also benefit from House Bill 5202’s investments in the state’s child welfare systems: The legislature approved $15.9 million and 99 permanent staff positions that will allow ODHS Child Welfare to strengthen central operations and provide enhanced coaching and guidance to child welfare workers around the state. Child Welfare also joined with the Oregon Youth Authority to request support for the state’s Behavior Rehabilitation Services, a statewide program serving children who have specialized needs. I am happy to report that the legislature fully funded that request.

We look forward to welcoming the Office of Immigrant and Refugee Advancement, which was transferred from the Governor’s Office to ODHS per Senate Bill 1550. The office is charged with operating a statewide immigrant and refugee integration strategy that includes advocacy and data collection – work that directly aligns with our existing efforts to support immigrants and refugees as they resettle and rebuild their lives in Oregon.

We find more reasons to celebrate as we look beyond our agency at broader wins for the people we serve. From expanding families’ equitable access to child care to guaranteeing overtime pay for farmworkers, the legislature made significant investments in efforts that align with our Equity North Star.

The investments highlighted throughout this report are vital supports for ODHS’ ongoing work — work that, in turn, provides vital supports to people in our state. We thank the legislature for demonstrating its steadfast commitment to human services, and we look forward to our continued partnership as we help bring that commitment to life.

Sincerely,

Fariborz Pakseresht, Director,
Oregon Department of Human Services

Human services provide key supports for people at every stage of life. From child abuse prevention to cash assistance for young families to meals for older adults, these supports are the brick and mortar in building communities’ well-being. As with any building effort, human services require skilled craftspeople – the staff and providers who partner with communities to carry out our work around the state.

In passing House Bill 5202, the Oregon Legislature approved a number of investments in the state’s human services workforce, including those highlighted below. Together, these investments will substantially strengthen ODHS foundations and allow us to keep our operational trains running.

- $12.9 million in repurposed savings to support providers who serve children and families through the Behavior Rehabilitation Services (BRS) program;
- $3.6 million to increase provider rates for Vocational Rehabilitation employment services;
- Four permanent Regional Workforce and Business Coordinator positions to expand Vocational Rehabilitation program’s employer partnership efforts;
- $11.6 million to fund employee-retention incentive payments for direct care workers in nursing facilities, child and adult group homes, and the Stabilization and Crisis Unit;
- $58.2 million to support the cost of collective bargaining agreements for non-state employees;
- $435.6 million and 95 limited-duration positions for Medicaid home- and community-based services (HCBS) that support people with disabilities and people who are aging.
- 99 central office staff positions to support the Child Welfare program; and
- $3.2 million and 18 permanent, full-time positions for administrative support to ODHS and Oregon Health Authority.
Preparedness is a fundamental part of well-being, increasing our security in the face of future uncertainties and making resilience truly achievable. ODHS Office of Resilience and Emergency Management (OREM) plays a dual role in this area, providing emergency assistance in times of disaster while investing year-round in community resilience.

Simultaneously, through its partnerships with Tribes, community-based organizations, and the private sector, OREM continues to build a statewide network of communities that are well prepared to navigate future emergencies.

In 2021, House Bill 5006 allocated nine limited-duration positions to OREM to support wildfire recovery and other disaster response efforts. This session, House Bill 5202 made the nine positions permanent. Moving forward, OREM will continue to shelter and feed Afghan refugees and provide emergency shelter, meals, and wraparound services to survivors of the 2020 and 2021 wildfires. The team will also focus on initiatives to increase Oregon’s disaster preparedness — expanding its Mass Care Response Teams, assisting communities in establishing cooling and clean air centers for use during extreme heat and wildfire events, and conducting exercises at key sites throughout the state in preparation for a Cascadia Subduction Zone earthquake.

House Bill 5202 also secured $1 million for 211info, a contact center that helps connect Oregonians to a range of health and social services including emergency food and shelter. The investment will make this critical service available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, representing an important step toward greater statewide emergency preparedness.

Another important focus for ODHS this session was Senate Bill 1533, which directs the agency to establish a grant program that will allow local governments and Oregon’s federally recognized Tribes to plan and operate cleaner air spaces and smoke filtration systems. The funds will address critical gaps in community resilience, particularly for Tribes and localities that are especially vulnerable to wildfire impacts.
ODHS envisions a future in which all who live in Oregon, regardless of race, identity, age, disability, gender, or place, have the needed supports to build well-being for themselves, their families, and their communities. Over the next two biennia, ODHS will realize this vision through the Building Well-being initiative, an agency-wide effort for transforming human services in Oregon.

Guided by our Equity North Star, the initiative will break down program siloes in favor of a holistic, person-centered service model and work directly with communities and other partners to design programs and deliver services. While Building Well-being will guide agency efforts for years to come, the legislative investments highlighted below will enable important strides right away.

Of special note is House Bill 5202’s investment in the Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF) program. Research indicates that measures to reduce child poverty promote greater well-being for children well into adulthood – contributing to a stronger social fabric that benefits everyone. This increase of $1 million in state dollars and $25.1 million in federal funds will allow program changes aimed at reducing child poverty and improving outcomes for participating families. The package includes:

- Funds to increase the TANF resource limit from $2,500 to $10,000, allowing families to retain more of their resources while still qualifying for cash assistance;

- Funds that will allow ODHS Self-Sufficiency Programs to preserve 75 percent of the monthly TANF cash grant for dependent children in cases where an adult in the family is disqualified from the program;

- Support for a clothing benefit that will provide participating families with three seasonal clothing allowances per year; and

- The expansion of Oregon’s statewide Family Support and Connections program to serve more families, prioritizing Black, Indigenous, and families of color.
We can also support well-being in important ways by promoting equitable access to well-paying careers – a central aim of Future Ready Oregon (Senate Bill 1545). A Governor’s Office priority for 2022, the bill invests in a broad range of workforce strategies designed to connect Oregonians with the job training, education, and other resources they need to enter rewarding, skilled careers. Among these strategies is the Prosperity 10,000 Program, an initiative administered by local workforce development boards with grants from the Higher Education Coordinating Commission. Prioritizing Tribal members, communities of color, people with disabilities, women, rural residents, and members of Oregon’s LGBTQIA2S+ communities, the program aims to increase participants’ career training opportunities in technology, health care, and manufacturing. The bill sets into motion several important developments for ODHS and the people we serve, including:

- The incorporation of the SNAP Employment and Training Program into Prosperity 10,000, which will help to ensure that people experiencing low or no income will have access to this key support;

- A new collaboration between the Office of Developmental Disabilities Services and community partners to ensure that Prosperity 10,000 benefits meet the needs of people with intellectual and developmental disabilities; and

- The availability of additional employment services for clients with disabilities through Vocational Rehabilitation providers around the state.

Senate Bill 1550, which transfers the Office of Immigrant and Refugee Advancement from the Governor’s Office to ODHS, also advances our vision of well-being for all who live in Oregon. Under the leadership of newly appointed Director Toc Soneoulay-Gillespie, the office will work to improve outcomes for immigrants and refugees by connecting people to long-term supports and services while collecting data to better understand the needs of both populations.
The Oregon Legislature’s 2022 investments in ODHS resulted in a general fund increase of $153 million and 310 additional staff positions across the agency.
