

It should be noted that in 1999, the Supreme Court ruled that statistical sampling may not be used in calculating the population for purposes of apportionment.¹ Because sampling was proposed by the Census Bureau to eliminate potential biases in the count, we must recognize that the data displayed here could potentially undercount Hispanic and non-White race/ethnicity categories.

Figures 7-11, Changes in Race/Ethnicity by County, 2010 Census vs 2020 Census

¹ Department of Commerce v. United States House of Representatives, 525 U.S. 316 (1999)

