Public invited to free, fun informational fairs for older adults in Klamath, Lake counties

The Oregon Department of Human Services (ODHS) joined with community centers and partners in Klamath and Lake counties to co-host two fun, informational resource fairs that are tailored for older adults. The two free events are open to everyone. They will feature speakers, activities, giveaways, information and resource booths as well as lunch.

The ODHS Office of Aging and People with Disabilities (APD), in coordination with the APD Adult Protective Services Program, is co-hosting the events with the Klamath & Lake Counties Council on Aging, the Klamath Basin Senior Citizens' Center, Lake County Senior Center and other community partner agencies. Information provided will include tips on how to avoid the latest scams in recognition of World Elder Abuse Awareness Day in June.
