RE: Direct Care Worker Training – Free of Charge

Clackamas Community College (CCC) is now offering the free 56 - hour training for direct care workers on their campus one-day per week over a 10 – week period. This training will begin on May 29 and end on July 31, 2019. Please see the attached flier to review the topics covered in this training. If you would like a training provided at your facility, please contact Teri Olsen at CCC to discuss scheduling options available.

Below is some additional information on this class:

- This training is for direct care workers who work in residential care and assisted living facilities and adult foster homes.
- It includes training that meets the new pre-service training requirements for dementia care training.
- Students will need to attend classes and successfully complete all courses at 80% or higher to receive a certificate.
- This training is free and is being paid for by the Quality Care Fund, a State fund that is dedicated to training and technical assistance for long-term care settings licensed by Aging and People with Disabilities.

Below are some best practices for staff attending this class:

- Allow employees to attend this training as part of their paid work week and release them from their job duties during class time.
- Arrange for employees to have been off work at least eight hours prior to training. This will support staff being alert and able to learn.
- Participants should wear professional attire that is appropriate for lab/skill exercises. For example, khakis and a polo shirt, with closed-toed shoes.
