

Figure 1. The dashed lines under deposits 4 and 5 represent possible bedrock profiles. The short dashed line begins at the observed travertine soil contact and illustrates one interpretation of the possible bedrock profile. The long dashed line begins at inferred bounds of travertine and illustrates another possible profile. Either extreme is logical in the light of the available data although something in between more likely prevails.