

Ewart Baldwin reports in a letter (July 10, 1949) that Leonard Gibbs has developed the mine as follows:

"He had gone in about 300 feet on the west side of the draw and mined up the dip. Then he moved over to the west wall and drove in about 400 feet and is turning rooms.....They said that they had produced 150 tons during 1948."