Installation of a 50-ton plant is contemplated by the Independent Quicksilver Company if present development plans are successful. The company has been working continuously since June of 1939, doing surface prospecting with a bulldozer until October when underground drilling was started. Tunnel work will be undertaken in the spring and the company hopes to be in production this summer. The mine is on Lookout Mountain in the Mother Lode district of Crook County near Prineville, Oregon. George C. Hogg of Prineville is manager.
