CAL-ORO

The Mining Journal ~~Ma~~ January 30 1938

A group of Baker and Portland, Oregon, men are reported to be seeking options on about 400 acres of land or more at Jacksonville in Jackson County, Oregon. The group includes: Claire D. Schlemmer of Baker, owner of the Highland and Maxwell mine; J. R. Bowles, Public Service Building, Portland, interested in mining property in Idaho and Montana; William E. Cullers, Public Service Building, Portland, president of the Sumpter Valley Gold Dredging Company; and Harvey Dick of Portland, also interested in the Sumpter Valley dredging company. If plans materialize about $20,000 will be spent in testing the ground and this work is expected to require at least a year. The proposed operations would embrace the entire Jackson Creek and Daisy Creek channels and contiguous land. A tract of about 143 acres in the district is stated to be under option already to the Cal Oro Dredging Company, Lawrence Gardena, 681 Market Street, San Francisco, president and manager. The Cal Oro company's principal operations are located in California.
