

The Mining Journal June 30 1937.

The Exchequer Mine, Inc., which recently took over the Exchequer mine in Jackson county near Jacksonville, Oregon, is planning to extend the main tunnel 200 feet to a point below a known ore body which was productive of high grade in the early days. The company reports a successful test run of 138 tons of ore in the plant of the Jacksonville Mining Company, which the Exchequer company took over and remodeled, adding flotation. Until further development furnishes an adequate amount of ore in the Exchequer property, the company will run the plant on custom material. George Lowd of Grants Pass is president and H. F. Byram, 375 Edgecliff Road, Portland, is secretary-treasurer and general manager.

Exchequer Mine, Inc.,
Mining Jour. (Phoenix) v. 21, no. 3, p. 31, June 30, 1937.

"The Exchequer Mine, Inc., which recently took over the Exchequer mine in Jackson Co. near Jacksonville, Oreg., is planning to extend the main tunnel 200' to a point below a known ore body which was productive of high grade in the early days. The company reports a successful test run of 138 tons of ore in the plant of the Jacksonville Mining Co., which the Exchequer company took over and remodeled, adding flotation. Until further development furnishes an adequate amount of ore in the Exchequer property, the company will run the plant on custom material. George Lowd of Grants Pass is president and H. F. Byram, 375 Edgecliff Road, Portland, is sec.-treas. and general manager.
