

Final Payment Made on Mine

Leon C. Osteyee of San Francisco reported Thursday that the Powell Creek Mining company had made final payment on the Bonanza mine, purchased from Ed Layton, and that the deed had been filed.

There are 16 stockholders, he said, most of them living in San Francisco.

The Bonanza was in the news a few weeks ago when its operators, after taking out ore bearing from 8 to 10 ounces of gold per ton for the past two years, struck a rich spot which assayed $34,000 per ton in gold and silver.

Osteyee smiled when he read a local editorial declaring that publication of the assay by the state mine office was harmful publicity for Josephine county mining and a subsequent letter from Earl K. Nixon of the state mining department declaring that the editorial was incorrect in its assertions.
