Presented by Tami Atkinson

The DPSST Training Division requested the approval of the Telecommunications Policy Committee to make modifications to the Basic Telecommunications curriculum based on a review completed in October by the Telecommunications Curriculum Committee and the Center for Policing Excellence. On April 27, 2017 the Board on Public Safety Standards and Training approved the expansion of the Basic Telecommunications academy to three weeks in duration.

5. Proposed Rule Changes for OAR 259-008-0025; Relating to the Three-week Basic Telecommunicator Course and Course Challenge Eligibility Standards.
Presented by Jennifer Howald

George Long recommend the Board adopt the changes as proposed and that the Board approve filing the 259-008-0025 as a permanent rule change with the Secretary of State if no comments are received. Brandon Klocko seconded the motion. The motion passed unanimously.

6. Proposed Rule Changes for OAR 259-008-0060; FA & CPR Requirements for Obtaining DPSST Certifications as a Telecommunicator/Emergency Medical Dispatcher
Presented by Jennifer Howald

Issue: By Administrative rule, First Aid and Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (FA&CPR) certifications are required for all levels of DPSST certification (Basic, Intermediate, Advance, Supervisory, Management and Executive) regardless of discipline (police, corrections, parole & probation, regulatory specialist, telecommunicator and emergency medical dispatcher)

Several telecommunications and emergency medical dispatch public and private safety agencies have recently asked the Department why FA&CPR certifications are required for a telecommunicator or emergency medical dispatcher to obtain a DPSST certification when persons certified as a telecommunicator or emergency medical dispatcher are not required to maintain FA&CPR certifications as a part of the telecommunicator/emergency medical dispatcher certification maintenance requirements.

In recognition that the certification standards and the maintenance standards are not consistent for telecommunicators and emergency medical dispatchers, the following draft rule change removes the FA&CPR certification requirement from the minimum standards that must be met in order to be eligible for the award of a certificate. Through this proposed rule change, FA&CPR certification would no longer be required for any telecommunicator or emergency medical dispatcher DPSST certification.

Removal of the FA&CPR certification requirement from the rule does not prevent or prohibit the employing public or private safety agency from requiring FA and/or CPR certification as an employer standard or agency best practice. The employing public or private safety agency also maintains the discretion to determine whether to apply FA and/or CPR training toward maintenance requirements.

- Randy Wood moved to recommend the Board adopt the changes as proposed and that the Board approve filing the changes to OAR 259-008-0060 and 259-008-0060 as a permanent rule change with the Secretary of State if no comments are received. Candace Pozdolski seconded the motion. The motion passed unanimously.

10. Staff Update

- Eriks welcomed new members of the Telecommunications Policy Committee and thanked them for participating in the discussion. DPSST staff prepares the documents the Policy Committee will review but is the important work of the committee members to evaluate the materials, deliberate the issues and make a recommendation to the Board.

- Work on 2019-2021 Agency Request Budget continues. Last week DPSST appeared in front of Governor Brown’s budget development team, and discussed the budget and needs of the agency. The session was well received but the outcome would not be known until the Governor released their proposed budget at the beginning of 2019. The true agency budget would not be known until the Oregon Legislative Assembly completes its work most likely in June of 2019. DPSST did share during its budget appeal that if the projected hiring wave continues the agency will continue to return to the legislative Emergency Board to request funds for additional basic training classes.

- Enrollment at the Academy continues to be steady. DPSST staff is looking to add an additional Basic Telecommunications & EMS class to meet agency hiring needs.

- DPSST has been contacted by the Bureau of Labor and Industries (BOLI) which is looking into a wage and hour complaint that has been filed by a student attending the Academy. The complaint alleges that DPSST training exceeds the 40-hour work week and that morning colors, homework and assignments should be considered overtime. DPSST has fully cooperated with BOLI and looks forward to the review. DPSST has been transparent in its discussions and has advised BOLI that DPSST is not the employer of the men and women attending the Academy but the training provider. DPSST knows some agency collective bargaining agreements may define work hours and work weeks differently but DPSST has no way to know the contracts in place with 208 agencies who send their personnel to the Academy.

- DPSST appreciates the candid feedback it received from stakeholders that recently completed the 2018 DPSST Public Safety Customer Service Survey. Lots of very good information was received that will allow the organization to make necessary changes to meet constituent needs. The survey can be found online at https://www.oregon.gov/dpsst/docs/2018%20Customer%20Satisfaction%20Survey%20Results.pdf

- DPSST staff continued to work on the Crisis Intervention Training (CIT) for 9-1-1 class. The Portland Bureau of Emergency Communications is beta testing the curriculum and DPSST staff hope to broaden the delivery of this training on how assist people in crisis in 2019.

- DPSST is hosting a Stress First Aid train the trained class in January. This class is open to law enforcement, corrections, and 9-1-1 professionals free of charge.

- Eriks shared that DPSST’s 9-1-1 Training Coordinator Tami Atkinson we recently honored with the Oregon Chapter of the Association of Public Safety Communications Officials (AOCO) and National Emergency Number Association’s (NENA) Lifetime Achievement Award. DPSST is very proud of Tami and her great work ethic is evident by 9-1-1 professionals attending the Academy.

Meeting adjourned at 10:36 a.m.
