NOTICE FILED DATE: 09/15/2022

RULE SUMMARY: Private security providers pay an application fee when applying for or renewing a private security certification or license. Each certification or license is issued for a two-year period. This rule change finalizes increases for the fees for private security provider certifications and licenses.

Alarm Monitor, Armed, Unarmed, and Event and Entertainment Private Security Professionals

This certification fee changes from $65 to $78. This is a $13 increase.

Instructors

Private Security Firearms Instructors and Alarm Monitor Instructors

This certification fee changes from $90 to $108. This is an $18 increase.

Private Security Unarmed Instructors

This certification fee changes from $90 to $135. This is a $45 increase. The new fee amount for the Private Security Unarmed Instructor certification reflects the significant changes in the training course over the past 10 years. This course has undergone extensive development, transitioning from a one-day instructor training course to a two-day course, and most recently to the current four-day course. DPSST may need to adjust the fees for the Alarm Monitor and Private Security Firearms Instructor certifications in the future, once the courses have been reviewed and updated.

Managers

Private Security Supervisory Managers

This license fee changes from $75 to $100. This is a $25 increase.

Private Security Executive Managers

This license fee changes from $250 to $312. This is a $62 increase.

The new fee amounts for the Supervisory and Executive Manager licenses are structured to include a portion of the administrative costs for processing an additional certification as a Private Security Professional. DPSST allows a Manager to apply for one private security professional certification (alarm monitor or unarmed) without paying an additional certification fee because the training requirements to obtain the Manager license include completion of a private security professional course. When a Manager renews their license, the Manager may also apply to renew the private security professional certification, if they have completed the biennial renewal course, for the cost of the Manager license fee. Contact DPSST for additional information.

Other Fees

The fee for a late renewal application will increase by $5, from $25 to $30.

The fee for a duplicate or replacement license will increase by $4, from $20 to $24.

The fee for an armed upgrade will increase by $5, from $20 to $25.

Why are fee increases necessary? Why these fee amounts?

The costs associated with the administration of the private security provider certification and licensing program have increased to the point that the current fees no longer cover the costs of the program. Administration costs include, but are not limited to staffing, supplies, travel, technology services, rent, and legal costs. After a review of the current budget projections, past biennial budgets, revenues, deficits, and the inflation of administrative costs over time, the DPSST found that a fee increase is necessary to maintain the current service level and cover the increased administrative costs of the private security provider certification and licensing program. The new fee amounts outlined in the proposed rule change include a 20% increase over the current fee. The Private Security Unarmed Instructor certification fee and the Supervisory and Executive Manager license fees are greater than 20% due to unique costs specific to the certification and license type. Without the fee increases, the DPSST will face a revenue shortfall in the 2021-2023 biennium.

Note: This permanent rule filing finalizes the process that DPSST initiated in 2021. DPSST implemented collection of the new fee amounts on November 1, 2022.
