Energy Facility Siting Council and Oregon Department of Energy Review of Revision 10 of the of the Security Plan for the Trojan Independent Spent Fuel Storage Installation

On March 4, 2025, Portland General Electric (PGE) notified the Oregon Department of Energy that Revision 10 of the Security Plan for the Trojan Independent Spent Fuel Storage Installation (ISFSI) had been submitted to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. The ISFSI provides temporary storage for spent nuclear fuel and other radioactive materials that were generated during the operation of the Trojan Nuclear Plant between 1976 and 1993. The Trojan site is located in Columbia County, near the City of Ranier, Oregon. State law requires the Energy Facility Siting Council and the Oregon Department of Energy to monitor operation of the ISFSI, including its security programs, to ensure that radioactive materials are safely stored at the site until a permanent storage site is made available by the federal government.

Revision 10 updates the Security Plan to reflect the construction of a new administrative building, known as the Trojan Support Center, which houses operations and security staff for the ISFSI; operational changes to the physical security systems, equipment, and personnel requirements at the site; and changes to federal requirements for security incident reporting.

On May 14, 2025, Mark Reese, the Department's Radiological Emergency Program Coordinator, visited the Trojan Site, where he reviewed the revised Security Plan and inspected the new support center and security features at the site. At the Council's meeting on June 13, 2025, Mr. Reese reported that he was satisfied that PGE is taking appropriate steps and actions to ensure the continued safety and security of the stored spent nuclear fuel at the Trojan site. Based on Mr. Reese's report, the Council and the Director found that the ISFSI Security Plan, with the changes made by Revision 10, continues to provide adequate provisions for the protection of public health and safety as required by state law.
