

Considerations for Commissioner Involvement in the Tuition Review Process

When considering how HECC staff and the Commission should approach the specific tuition review process, staff seeks guidance from the Commission on the following elements, relating mainly to how the Commission and HECC staff interact with the institutions throughout this tuition review process:

1. How should Commissioners, or HECC staff, directly engage in monitoring an institution's tuition review process? For example:
 - a. Should a Commissioner be assigned to monitor each institution?
 - b. Should Commissioners, or HECC staff, attend tuition review meetings or board meetings where tuition is discussed?
2. Are there any particular pieces of information HECC Commissioners would like to see through this process? Such as:
 - a. Budget/cost control plans.
 - b. Information presented to tuition review committees.
3. How should HECC staff consider dissenting points of view to an institution's tuition recommendation?
