INTRODUCING OUR NEWEST BOARD MEMBER

Jenn Peters

Jenn Peters grew up in the Rocky Mountains and holds degrees in chemistry and biochemistry from the University of Wyoming and Purdue University. Upon moving to Oregon in the mid-1990s and changing her career path to follow a passion for plants and stretch her creative side, Jenn earned an AS degree in landscape design at Portland Community College. Starting her career as a designer, she found herself enjoying the rigors and challenges of landscape installation while working for a landscape design/build firm. Gaining her landscape contractor's license, Jenn transitioned from pen and paper to mortar and trowel and now co-owns and operates a design/build landscape firm in the Portland metro area that specializes in boulder placement and large scale-water features.

Coming full circle, Jenn's current passion is instructing and supporting students in pursuit of their personal and professional goals at her alma mater, PCC's Landscape Technology Program. She loves living vicariously through her students' enthusiasm and energy for all things green. When she is not teaching or playing around in the mud with big rocks and water, she enjoys hiking, camping, gardening, and all things outdoors.

Jenn is excited to be a new member of the State Landscape Contractors Board. "It is an opportunity to utilize my experience and knowledge of landscaping to support the industry and give back to the communities that have supported me."

CHANGES TO LCB BONDS

Due to recent legislation, LCB's bond structure will change January 1, 2026, to require ALL landscape contracting businesses to carry a $20,000 bond, except for Probationary phase holders, which still require a $15,000 bond.

Deadline Approaching- Avoid Suspension

Contact your bond company to update your bond amount prior to January 1, 2026, to avoid possible suspension of your business license.

CHANGES TO LCB FEES

You can find information about the new fee structure on the LCB website

If you have questions about these fee changes, bond changes, or need assistance with your license requirements, please contact our office. We recommend reviewing your renewal dates and planning ahead to ensure compliance with all licensing requirements.
