Comment: 50 years of watching land planning grow and flourish in Oregon has been a delight in my life. But I see it slipping a bit now and I'm hoping that we can tighten our urban growth boundaries, protect our forests, agricultural, coastal areas so they can provide a healthy environment for our earth and it's people LCDC should pause this rulemaking until basic data is gathered about the status of existing UCs. It should re-focus its attention on the housing rural workers actually need and how to increase housing opportunities for those who live and work in these rural areas.
