

It has come to the board's attention that there is some confusion over the newly expanded formulary. The formulary council has been working hard to limit any confusion for our licensees. All medications that have been listed on the old formulary compendium are still included on the new one (specifically in 850-060-0225). In addition, the formulary compendium now includes all categories (with a few exceptions) listed in the 2009 edition of the American Hospital Formulary Services (AHFS) Drug Information textbook. The new formulary compendium adopted on January 1, 2010 does not include the following categories:

- Barbiturates
- General anesthetics
- Most chemotherapy agents
- Antipsychotics

Applications to add medications to the formulary need only be submitted if the category is not listed in the AHFS or in 850-060-0226. Please see the following link for the formulary compendium by classification:
