Draft minutes from the June 5-7 2018 board meeting held in Hood River, Oregon were presented to the Board for review and approval. A motion was made by Tracey Liskey to approve the minutes as presented. Laura Masterson seconded. Motion passed unanimously.

Director's report (Audio = 1:08)

Director Alexis Taylor updated the Board on several items including:

- Two new board members have been appointed to the Board effective November 1, 2018. Director Taylor thanked outgoing Board members Tracey Liskey and Laura Masterson for sharing their willingness to serve the past 8 years and they will be greatly missed on the Board.
- Legislative Days – Director Taylor presented to the Senate Business and Transportation committee along with Business Oregon and the Port of Portland to talk about the States perspective on International Trade. Director Taylor also spoke to the Senate Natural Resources and Environment Committee and provided an update on Lost Valley. In addition, Deputy Director Hanson presented to the House Ag Committee along with DEQ and OWEB on the Ag Water Quality Programs. A similar presentation on Ag Water Quality will be given to the Board in November.
- Lost Valley Farm – An update was given on the status of Lost Valley Farm. Currently the ODA is on three separate tracks with the operator and facility 1) Federal Bankruptcy Court 2) ODA and DEQ have jointly moved to revoke their permit which has been appealed and is subject to the Administrative Procedures Act. The case has been referred to an administrative hearings officer and no date for a hearing has been established. 3) Multnomah County Court – Back in February 2018, the State asked for a temporary restraining order to stop waste production at the facility. The judge issued a stipulated judgement which put additional constraints on the operator and facility which made them a party of it and they could be held in contempt of court. Since that time, they have been found in contempt.

Senator Dembrow is interested in setting up a work group to talk about lessons learned from the Lost Valley Farm example to see what if any changes need to be made to how permits are issued or any necessary changes to the statutes to ensure this example does not repeat.

The ODA also reported on the cost of additional inspections required, additional travel, legal costs incurred and the impact to the ODA budget. Typically, an individual permit holder with no compliance issues has 3-4 visits per year. Since March 2017 the ODA has been to Lost Valley Farm 62 times.

- The Director reported on an issue with 1,454 Ponderosa pine trees on US Forest Service land outside of Sisters on Hwy 20 that have died. The herbicide product used as part of the weed management work along the right of way may be the issue. The label on the product is slightly confusing regarding the use around trees. The ODA has established emergency rule making to prohibit the use of this product along right of ways until and investigation can be done to determine under what conditions this product should be used. This product is used in Eastern Oregon in areas with less desirable trees and it is an important product for that use.
- Oregon is scheduled to host the Western Association of State Departments of Agriculture (WASDA) meeting in 2021.
- ODA staff changes – Kathryn Walker has left the ODA and Sue Gooch has retired. Going forward, the positions will change to focus more on government relations and a rules coordinator. The positions descriptions are under review and will be posted in the near future. The Market Access Program Area Director position, previously held by Lindsay Eng, will also be posted.

ODA Program Director Update (Audio = 44:32)

Food Safety and Animal Health Program Area Director Isaak Stapleton provide an update to the Board on programs in both areas. Updates included:

- Food Safety backlog of routine inspections – As a result of a 2015 Secretary of State audit they identified a backlog of routine inspections. The program has been working to reduce the backlog down to 500 firms. A computer glitch in the reporting system had been discovered and since repaired that had increased the backlog to 2200 firms. The program has worked to reduce the backlog and is now down to approximately 1500 firms. This backlog represents about 12% of the total licensed firms.
- FSMA – The ODA has contracted with FDA to conduct a limited number of inspections.
- Water – As a result of the water advisory in the Salem the Food Safety program had several inquiries from food processing firms regarding the use of water. No method has been developed to test the impact on finished food products. The Emergency Board request for funding will assist with the development of a method to test.
- Shellfish – A recent audit was conducted by Canada on the US practices regarding shellfish. The audit was conducted in both Oregon and Washington.
- Crab – Work has been done to increase the water monitoring to detect and report domoic acid earlier. This increased monitoring is an effort to open the season and keep it open as much as possible.
- Dairy/Cattle – Oregon will soon adopt the new PMO which will align with FSMA. Work continues to deal with the unmanaged herd of cattle that strays on to Hwy 101 along the South Coast.

The Board recessed at 10:00 am and reconvened at 10:15 am.

Jim Johnson, Land Use & Water Planning Coordinator for the ODA provided an update to the Board on the 2018 fire season in the North Central area and its impact on agricultural land. Jim played a lead role for the Department on following the issues and reporting the impact. Approximately 340,000 acres have burned in that part of the state with the Substation fire including the greatest amount of crop land.

ODA partnered with several agencies USDA, NRCS and OWEB to help navigate the issues faced by farmers and landowners. Balancing the use of cover crops to control erosion and jeopardizing the risk of loss federal crop insurance is an important issue.

Other parts of the state reported impacts as a result of the fires, while the ground in the Willamette Valley has burned, the smoke resulted in sending some workers home and in southern Oregon fresh market vegetables farms were dealing with ash.

Impacts under review by both the Federal and State government in an effort to manage state and federal lands and make changes where necessary.

Themes include: support for funding the program, support for the program and the overarching policy goals the program will fulfill, reiterate the program should protect agricultural lands and that conservation is important and other programs exist to support the conservation efforts, ODA should be included as part of the technical review process and reinforcing getting program information out to the farmer and ranching communities is important and that the information is accessible and written in plain language. The letter should encourage the OAHP Commission to work with the ODA around some of the technical definitions. The Board supports the program and recommends appropriate funding by the State. This is a long-term project and must have a commitment from the State to support funding for future use.
