Overview of Services

Edmentum provides virtual High-Dosage Tutoring designed to accelerate early literacy growth through targeted, data-driven instruction. Edmentum's model pairs qualified educators with students in frequent, focused sessions that build foundational reading skills using ESSA-evidenced diagnostics and personalized learning pathways called Exact Path. This adaptive, evidence-based online learning program delivers individualized instruction in reading, math, and language arts based on diagnostic assessment data. It targets the specific skills students need to grow and informs Edmentum's virtual tutoring model.

Edmentum's approach emphasizes human connection, culturally responsive practices, and consistent support aligned with early literacy standards. Districts benefit from scalable, research-based intervention that strengthens proficiency, closes learning gaps, and supports equitable literacy outcomes.

Alignment to Oregon's Early Literacy Framework

Edmentum's High-Dosage Tutoring aligns with Oregon's Early Literacy Framework by targeting foundational reading skills through data-driven, evidence-based instruction and diagnostics.

A culturally responsive, relationship-centered tutoring model supports equitable learning and reflects diverse student needs.

Frequent assessment guides personalized instruction, while families are engaged as partners in literacy development.

Skilled virtual educators provide consistent, high-impact support that builds district capacity to accelerate early literacy growth.

Evidence of Impact

Edmentum's tutoring services have demonstrated measurable gains in student achievement. ESSA-rated studies show that students using Exact Path make statistically significant improvements in reading, with effect sizes up to 0.19 and notable percentile growth for K-3 learners.

District case studies highlight increased engagement and academic progress, and educator testimonials further emphasize positive outcomes, noting strengthened learning trajectories and improved success across diverse student populations.
