Using Early Indicator and Intervention Systems
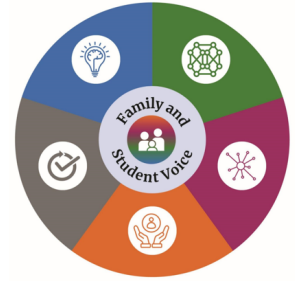

With the right approach, an early indicator and intervention system (EIIS) can be a lever for student success, school improvement, equity, and family engagement. To support districts and schools in this work, ODE is offering two learning series: EIIS: Foundations for Student Success and EIIS at Middle and High School.

With these free virtual team-based learning opportunities, your team can develop mind-sets that align with a positive youth development approach and skills to understand student needs, apply an equity lens to student data, reflect on current EIIS, and develop plans for implementation. These series offer in-depth learning and training you can immediately apply to your own EIIS, regardless of current level of implementation.

Open to school- or district-based teams at any stage of EIIS implementation

We encourage teams of 4–6 teachers and leaders to build a common foundation to initiate or enhance EIIS

Fully virtual

10 weeks of participation

Real-time virtual workshops (times and days to be determined by participant preferences)

Independent team learning activities to guide reflection on the strengths of your current systems and support implementation of new learning

No cost to participate

Ongoing consultation and collaboration sessions with facilitators to develop materials and processes to strengthen systems in your school or district

EIIS Community of Practice

This community of practice will include eight monthly 90-minute synchronous, virtual meetings over the course of a school year. Facilitators will coach teams through the planning and implementation of their action plans and introduce key concepts, goals and outcomes, and tools and resources. This session will run from August 2024 to May 2025 with 8 virtual collaborative learning sessions.

Between meetings, teams will have the opportunity to use the tools to advance their continuous improvement cycle. This learning series will help participants:

- Use data to develop and implement an action plan to improve their EIIS systems and achieve more equitable outcomes for all students
- Identify and share problems of practice that present challenges to improving EIIS systems
- Collaborate on effective strategies to address shared problems of practice
