Grown In Oregon

Oregon farmers grow more than 40 million pounds of squash each year. It takes about 2,300 acres of land to grow all of that squash.

Oregon winter squash is harvested from mid-September through October. Since it keeps well, winter squash makes an easy side dish in the colder months.

Sweet Meat squash is a Northwest heirloom grown by an Oregon family for 100 years. It is said to make the best pumpkin pie on earth!
