Context

While the total number of EL students in Oregon continues to rise, so does the percentage of EL students within the total student population. Although achievement for EL students in Oregon reflects isolated pockets of success and promise in schools and classrooms across the state, overall achievement for this subgroup continues to lag behind their peers. We continue to see a significant gap between achievement, graduation rates and college completion, specifically as related to EL students. As we transition to Common Core State Standards (CCSS), the predictions as to the success of ELs as measured by the Smarter Balance Assessment are even more dismal. A sense of urgency is heightened as we reflect on these statistics and hear our communities calling for action to address these disparities.

Significant research exists that defines the most effective practices and models for serving our EL students. The Oregon Department of Education (ODE) is calling for all stakeholders to work collaboratively to meet the needs of our English Learner students. As we transition to Common Core State Standards (CCSS) and focus on a world-class education we have a perfect opportunity to consider how we position ourselves as a state to ensure that EL student success is represented equitably when we achieve our 40-40-20 goal.
