Nature of Abuse and Brief Narrative: One allegation of involuntary seclusion was substantiated against a specific staff after that staff used their foot against the door to keep a child in their bedroom.		Corrective Actions Taken or Ordered by the Department, and Outcome: The identified employee was retrained by Trillium following the incident to ensure the employee was clear about the fact that preventing a child from leaving their bedroom is prohibited. ODHS also followed up with Trillium management regarding some delays experienced by ODHS when requesting information from the program about the incident that gave rise to the investigation and substantiation. The program provided an explanation and described measures taken to prevent any delays in responding to information requests going forward. When the employee elected to not appeal the substantiation, Trillium submitted a new background check request to the ODHS Background Check Unit (BCU). The BCU conducted a fitness determination, taking into consideration the substantiation, and the employee was approved to continue in their position.
