Dear HCMO Review Team,

As a physician practicing in Oregon for 20 years and trusting Inovia Vein to provide excellent care for my patients, I wholeheartedly support their proposed affiliation with the Center for Vein Restoration. Inovia Vein has been a vital partner in delivering exceptional care, treating patients with deep venous thrombosis, venous insufficiency, leg swelling, and other vein conditions. They not only provide diagnosis and treatment but also take time to educate patients and direct them to resources to aid in their treatment plan.

Inovia stands out for their commitment to welcoming all patients, accepting all types of insurance, including Medicare and Oregon Health Plan (OHP). Their friendly staff works diligently to schedule patients promptly, often accommodating urgent cases on short notice, ensuring timely access to specialized care. I frequently rely on their expertise and prompt service for my patients.

The challenges of independent practice, such as rising costs and resource constraints, threaten the sustainability of such patient-centered services. This affiliation will provide Inovia with the opportunity to reduce operational expenses, enhance resources, and continue serving diverse communities effectively. I believe this partnership will strengthen access to quality vein care while addressing concerns about provider shortages.

I respectfully urge the Oregon Health Authority to approve this affiliation swiftly to support Inovia's mission and ensure continued healthcare stability for Oregon patients.

Sincerely,

Brooke Hall, M.D.

Dear HCMO Review Team,

As a physician practicing in Oregon for over 22 years and regularly collaborating with Inovia Vein on patient care, I wholeheartedly support their proposed affiliation with the Center for Vein Restoration. Inovia Vein has been a vital partner in treating patients with DVT, venous insufficiency, leg swelling, and other vein conditions, consistently delivering exceptional care.

Inovia stands out for their commitment to welcoming patients from all walks of life, accepting all types of insurance, including Medicare and Oregon Health Plan (OHP). Their friendly staff works diligently to schedule patients promptly, often accommodating urgent cases on short notice, ensuring timely access to specialized care.

The challenges of independent practice, such as rising costs and resource constraints, threaten the sustainability of such patient-centered services. This affiliation will provide Inovia with the scale to reduce operational expenses, enhance resources, and continue serving diverse communities effectively. I believe this partnership will strengthen access to quality vein care while addressing concerns about provider shortages.

I respectfully urge the Oregon Health Authority to approve this affiliation swiftly to support Inovia's mission and ensure continued healthcare stability for Oregon patients.

Sincerely,

Timothy S Bollom, MD

Good evening,

As a long-term employee of Inovia, I have had the privilege of watching the organization grow from a single clinic in Bend into a network of six clinics serving communities across Portland and Washington. Being part of this journey has been incredibly rewarding, and the growth we have achieved over the years is a testament to the dedication of our team and the importance of the services we provide.

In my experience with the organization, I have seen firsthand the positive impact Inovia has had within the communities we serve. The proposed acquisition with CVR represents an opportunity to further strengthen that impact. With the additional resources and support CVR can provide, Inovia would be better positioned to expand services and continue meeting the needs of patients and families throughout our Oregon and Washington communities.

Additionally, this partnership has the potential to create new employment opportunities and support continued professional growth for employees within the same communities we proudly serve.

Thank you for taking the time to consider the perspective of those of us who have been part of Inovia's journey for many years. I remain proud of the work we do and hopeful for the continued growth and opportunities that this partnership could bring.

Sincerely,

Kristen Laskowski
