Redaction #	Document Title	Bates Stamp Range	Reasons for Redaction	Statutory Basis	Partially or Entirely Redacted?
1	Exhibit 6(b)-1 – Asset Purchase Agreement	RGH_000023_Public RGH_000096_Public RGH_000104_Public RGH_000106_Public-RGH_000125_Public RGH_000127_Public-RGH_000132_Public RGH_000134_Public-RGH_000164_Public RGH_000166_Public-RGH_000167_Public RGH_000169_Public-RGH_000181_Public RGH_000183_Public-RGH_000191_Public	Redacted material: Select portions of the document: Definition of "Seller's Knowledge" (RGH_000023_Public) Section 10.1 (Notices) – contact information (RGH_000096_Public) Exhibit A – Key Employees (RGH_000104_Public) Exhibits B through G – entire exhibits, excluding exhibit cover pages (RGH_000106_Public-RGH_000191_Public) The redacted portions contain nonpublic, transaction-specific information, including the definition of Seller's Knowledge, personal contact information, key-employee information, and negotiated terms concerning escrow, assignment and assumption, transition services, allocation methodology, separation planning, and intellectual-property licensing. The redactions in the version submitted for public disclosure to OHA are substantively identical to redactions made in other public filings. Access to the unredacted information is limited by job function and/or need to know basis through passwords, role-based permissions, and specific data-access restrictions. The documents are marked confidential; employees are subject to confidentiality obligations; and disclosures to third parties are made subject to nondisclosure obligations or other confidentiality protections. Public disclosure could reveal transaction economics, valuation and allocation judgments, operational plans, negotiated risk allocation, and other commercial terms that competitors or future counterparties could use to disadvantage the parties in pricing, negotiations, or competitive decision-making. The information was developed through transaction negotiations and diligence and required the time and effort of employees and outside advisers to analyze, negotiate, and document.	ORS 415.501(13)(c); ORS 192.345(2)	Partially
2	Exhibit 7(b)-1 – Transaction Diligence Report (HSR Exhibit 4(c)-1)	RGH_000192_Public-RGH_000240_Public	Redacted material: Entire Document This document was identified as an Item 4(c) document and was submitted to the Federal Trade Commission as part of the parties' Hart-Scott-Rodino filing. It contains nonpublic analyses of the transaction, markets, competition, and business strategy. Access was limited to personnel and advisers with a transaction-related need to know, including through a restricted data room and clean-room process. Electronic access is protected through passwords, role-based permissions, and specific data restrictions; the document is marked confidential; employees are subject to confidentiality obligations; and third-party access is governed by nondisclosure or comparable confidentiality obligations. Public disclosure could provide competitors with insight into the parties' strategic assessments, market positions, transaction rationale, and other competitively sensitive information. The document was compiled specifically for the transaction and HSR process through the substantial effort of employees and outside advisers who gathered and analyzed business and market information.	Clayton Act § 7A(h), 15 U.S.C. § 18a(h); ORS 415.501(13)(c); ORS 192.345(2); ORS 192.355(9)(a)	Entirely

3	Exhibit 7(b)-2 – Transaction Diligence Report (HSR Exhibit 4(d)-4)	RGH_000241_Public-RGH_000247_Public	Redacted material: Entire Document This document was identified as an Item 4(d) document and was submitted to the Federal Trade Commission as part of the parties' Hart-Scott-Rodino filing. It contains nonpublic analyses of the transaction, markets, competition, and business strategy. Access was limited to personnel and advisers with a transaction-related need to know, including through a restricted data room and clean-room process. Electronic access is protected through passwords, role-based permissions, and specific data restrictions; the document is marked confidential; employees are subject to confidentiality obligations; and third-party access is governed by nondisclosure or comparable confidentiality obligations. Public disclosure could provide competitors with insight into the parties' strategic assessments, market positions, transaction rationale, and other competitively sensitive information. The document was compiled specifically for the transaction and HSR process through the substantial effort of employees and outside advisers who gathered and analyzed business and market information.	Clayton Act § 7A(h), 15 U.S.C. § 18a(h); ORS 415.501(13)(c); ORS 192.345(2); ORS 192.355(9)(a)	Entirely
4	Exhibit 7(b)-3 – Finance Diligence Read-Out	RGH_000248_Public-RGH_000257_Public	Redacted material: Entire Document The document contains nonpublic pricing, revenue, margin, valuation, cost, and related financial-diligence information, including information from which those measures could be derived. Access is limited by job function and need to know through passwords, role-based permissions, and specific data-access restrictions. The document is marked confidential; employees are subject to confidentiality obligations; and disclosures to third parties are made subject to nondisclosure obligations or other confidentiality protections. Competitors could use the information to reverse engineer profit margins or cost of goods sold, assess the parties' pricing and financial performance, or otherwise disadvantage the parties in competitive and commercial decision-making. The read-out was prepared specifically for transaction diligence and required employees and advisers to gather, analyze, and synthesize information from internal sources. The identity of the individual preparer and the exact amount of time expended are not tracked.	ORS 415.501(13)(c); ORS 192.345(2)	Entirely
5	Exhibit 9(a)-1 – HSR Premerger Notification Form	RGH_000258_Public-RGH_000280_Public	Redacted material: Entire Document The HSR Premerger Notification and Report Form was submitted to the Federal Trade Commission and contains nonpublic information compiled for the parties' Hart-Scott-Rodino filing, including information concerning revenues, business operations, prior acquisitions, and the transaction. Access was limited to personnel and advisers with a transaction-related need to know, including through a restricted data room and clean-room process. Electronic access is protected through passwords, role-based permissions, and specific data restrictions; the form is marked confidential; employees are subject to confidentiality obligations; and third-party access is governed by nondisclosure or comparable confidentiality obligations. Public disclosure could reveal competitively sensitive operational, financial, and strategic information that competitors could use to assess the parties' market positions and business strategies. The form was compiled specifically for the HSR process through the substantial effort of employees and outside advisers who collected, reviewed, and organized information from multiple internal sources.	Clayton Act § 7A(h), 15 U.S.C. § 18a(h); ORS 415.501(13)(c); ORS 192.345(2); ORS 192.355(9)(a)	Entirely

6	Exhibit 10(c)-1 – Cardinal Organizational Chart	RGH_000281_Public-RGH_000297_Public	Redacted material: FEINs of Cardinal Health, Inc. subsidiaries and affiliates The redacted Federal Employer Identification Numbers are nonpublic identifiers of Cardinal Health, Inc.'s subsidiaries and affiliates, used for tax and administrative purposes. The FEINs are being provided to OHA in connection with the HCMO filing and are not otherwise intended for public disclosure. The FEINs of Cardinal Health, Inc. and RGH Enterprises, LLC are publicly available (on the cover page of Cardinal Health, Inc.'s Form 10-K and in Item 1 of the HCMO-1 Notice, respectively) and are not redacted.	ORS 415.501(13)(c)	Partially
7	HCMO-1b – Business Entities Form (Combined)	RGH_000298_Public-RGH_000304_Public	Redacted material: FEINs of Party A affiliates (Cardinal Health, Inc. subsidiaries and affiliates other than RGH Enterprises, LLC) and Party B affiliates (AdaptHealth Corp. subsidiaries) The redacted Federal Employer Identification Numbers are nonpublic identifiers of the listed Cardinal Health, Inc. and AdaptHealth Corp. subsidiaries and affiliates, used for tax and administrative purposes. The FEINs are being provided to OHA in connection with the HCMO filing and are not otherwise intended for public disclosure. The FEIN of RGH Enterprises, LLC is disclosed in Item 1 of the HCMO-1 Notice and is not redacted.	ORS 415.501(13)(c)	Partially
8	Exhibit 10(f)(iii)-1 – Edgepark Diabetes Product Offerings	RGH_000396_Public	Redacted material: Select portions of the document (percentage of ADS and Edgepark diabetes revenue attributable to continuous glucose monitors (CGMs) and associated supplies) The redacted materail contains nonpublic, product-specific business information concerning the revenue mix of Edgepark's diabetes offerings. Access to this information is limited by job function and need to know through passwords, role-based permissions, and specific data-access restrictions. Employees are subject to confidentiality obligations, and disclosures to third parties are made subject to nondisclosure obligations or other confidentiality protections. Public disclosure could give competitors insight into Edgepark's product mix, commercial focus, and strategy and could be used to target its customers, suppliers, or business opportunities. The information was compiled from internal product and business records and required employee time and effort to identify, review, and organize for the HCMO submission.	ORS 415.501(13)(c); ORS 192.345(2)	Partially

9	Exhibit 10(f)(viii)-1 – AHS Oregon Shipments and Revenue	RGH_000402_Public	Redacted material: Select portions of the document (Oregon revenue figures for AHS and Edgepark) The redacted Oregon revenue figures are nonpublic, state-specific financial information that the company does not ordinarily prepare or analyze on an Oregon-specific basis. The Oregon shipment counts in this exhibit (for AHS and Edgepark) are not redacted. Access to the underlying data is limited by job function and need to know through passwords, role-based permissions, and specific data-access restrictions. Employees are subject to confidentiality obligations, and disclosures to third parties are made subject to nondisclosure obligations or other confidentiality protections. Competitors could use the revenue figures, together with the publicly disclosed shipment counts, to calculate revenue per shipment and reverse engineer information concerning pricing, margins, cost of goods sold, market presence, and operating performance, and could use that information in pricing, customer targeting, supplier or payor negotiations, and other competitive decisions. The figures were compiled specifically for this project, requiring employees to identify, extract, review, and compile revenue data from internal systems. The exact time expended was not tracked.	ORS 415.501(13)(c); ORS 192.345(2)	Partially
10	Exhibit 11(e)-2 – AdaptHealth Corp. – Oregon Locations Income Statement (FY2023–FY2025)	AHC_000107_Public	Redacted material: Select portions of the document (all line-item figures) The redacted line-item figures contain nonpublic, Oregon-specific revenue, cost, margin, and other financial-performance information that AdaptHealth does not ordinarily prepare or analyze on an Oregon-specific basis. Access is limited by job function and need to know through passwords, role-based permissions, and specific data-access restrictions. Employees are subject to confidentiality obligations, and disclosures to third parties are made subject to nondisclosure obligations or other confidentiality protections. Competitors could use the figures to assess performance and reverse engineer information related to pricing, customer targeting, supplier or payor negotiations, and other competitive decisions. A report was pulled specifically for this project, requiring employees—primarily in the accounting function—to identify, extract, review, and compile data from internal systems. The exact time expended was not tracked.	ORS 415.501(13)(c); ORS 192.345(2)	Partially
13	Exhibit 12-2 – AdaptHealth List of Acquisitions	AHC_000112_Public–AHC_000113_Public	Redacted material: Select portions of the document (information that is not publicly available in Column B (Company) and Column E (Seller Party); publicly available information is not redacted) The redacted company and seller-party names contain nonpublic information about AdaptHealth's acquisition activity and transaction counterparties. Access is limited by job function and need to know through passwords, role-based permissions, and specific data-access restrictions. The information is marked confidential; employees are subject to confidentiality obligations; and disclosures to third parties are made subject to nondisclosure obligations or other confidentiality protections. Public disclosure could reveal acquisition patterns, counterparties, and strategic areas of interest and could affect future negotiations or allow competitors to target counterparties and business opportunities. The list was compiled from internal transaction records and required employee time and effort to identify, review, and organize the responsive acquisition information for the HCMO submission.	ORS 415.501(13)(c); ORS 192.345(2)	Partially

14	Exhibit 14-2 – Estimated CGM Patient Base and Share	RGH_000498_Public	Redacted material: Select portions of the document (CGM patient bases, share figures, and estimated combined share) The redacted patient-base and market-share figures are nonpublic estimates concerning the parties' competitive positions in the continuous glucose monitoring market. Access is limited by job function and need to know through passwords, role-based permissions, and specific data-access restrictions. The information is marked confidential; employees are subject to confidentiality obligations; and disclosures to third parties are made subject to nondisclosure obligations or other confidentiality protections. Competitors could use the estimates to assess the parties' market positions, identify competitive strengths or vulnerabilities, and adjust pricing, customer targeting, contracting, and market strategy. The estimates required employee time and effort to identify and aggregate internal patient data, evaluate available market information, and develop the estimated patient bases and shares for the HCMO submission.	ORS 415.501(13)(c); ORS 192.345(2)	Partially
