8. Agenda Item: Public Comment

- a. (Julie Magers) I just wanted to make in the public record what I already put in the chat. Just that we really prioritize looking at the impact. Either lost or gained on our focus to youth and families in the crisis system and what is what is needed to stabilize youth and engage their family as different from what might be the right response for adults. And just really kind of get a look at what impact is happening when we don't have MRSS in every county. I know there are a whole variety of reasons is the case. But it still feels concerning that we kick the can on this program for a number of years to try and make space for overcoming the barriers to getting that program funded, fully staffed and fully operational. I just want to express concern that we're still not there a couple of years later.
- b. (Amy Fellows) I was just agreeing with Julie. I mean, I think I'm kind of one of the main abuse families and IDD representatives here and yeah it feels like you can families that have really been left behind. And also, as a resident of Eugene, I'm really concerned about us losing cahoots that have been here since the 80s and was the national model. I know that I don't understand everything that happened, but I know part of it was that there were changes made to the rules. Something happened with Cahoots, I also know what happened with the counting when mobile response came up instead of finding a way to collaborate and stay focused on Eugene-Springfield in the county on our very large county outside of Eugene-Springfield. Seems like there could have been a collaborative conversation. I also believe since I've been involved in these meetings for many years, I keep asking why Cahoots wasn't at the table. That's all. We have a federal bill named after them and they're not uplifted.
