

Special Opportunity for Residential Providers

INFORMATION SESSION

January 9, 2024
10:30 am - Noon (Virtual)

The Oregon Child & Family Center for Excellence is excited to announce an upcoming special project for residential providers to partner with the Oregon Department of Human Services' transformation efforts.

OVERVIEW:

- The work will be guided by a Theory of Change (TOC) for residential interventions developed by the national Building Bridges Initiative, a program of the Association of Children's Residential and Community services.
- The project will be studied and evaluated by the University of Kentucky Center for Innovation in Public Health, under the leadership of Dr. John Lyons.
- We will study and evaluate efforts by providers to implement program enhancements and improvements in their work with children, youth, and families.

BENEFITS:

- Identification of improvements that will improve client outcomes, address organizational clinical objectives, and meet expectations of regulatory and accreditation bodies.
- Participation of key staff and stakeholders, enhancing diversity, equity and inclusion in decision making.
- Ability to highlight results to funders, donors, policymakers.
- Funded consultation and technical assistance.
- Expert consultation on outcomes measurement and management.
- Positive national exposure for your organization in journal articles and potentially a book to be published about the work.

Providers will be selected via a simple Request for Application process. Please watch for the applications coming out before the end of the year.
