March 21st 1-2 p.m. Webinar: Best Practices for HIV Prevention among Transgender and Non-Binary People

The intention of the this webinar is to increase the organizational capacity of community-based organizations, health departments, and others to provide culturally relevant HIV prevention services to trans communities, and to promote National Transgender HIV Testing Day (NTHTD) April 18, 2018. NTHTD is the only HIV testing initiative focused solely on the trans community. The webinar will increase awareness of the unique HIV testing needs of trans people, identify best practices to engage trans communities in HIV prevention and care services, and encourage HIV services providers (community-based organizations, health jurisdictions, HIV prevention programs) to develop and expand their trans-specific HIV testing services.

March 22nd 2-3 p.m. Essentials of HIV Prevention Webinar Series: Transgender Competent Care and HIV Prevention

In the rapidly changing landscape of health care and HIV prevention, staying current on clinical guidelines and creative approaches is both challenging and vital. Primary Care Development Corporation's "HIP in Health Care" webinar series highlights and discusses four trending topics in the field of HIV prevention and lay out "five things to know" for each topic. This installment focuses on Transgender Competent Care and HIV Prevention.

Each webinar will also feature an interactive discussion with leaders in the field who have successfully applied these strategies to improve health outcomes for their patients. The webinars are intended for health care staff from all fields (medicine, nursing, social work, navigation) that work to prevent, diagnose, or treat patients living with HIV/AIDS.
