      MOTION: Valfre moves that the Housing Council approve the Minutes of the May 4, 2012 Council meeting.

V. DIRECTOR’S REPORT: Van Vliet reports the following:
   • SB 1552: Staff is gearing up to contract with non-profits to provide pre-mediation counseling in every county of the state; outreach efforts are being launched; and the department is in the process of hiring one full time limited duration staff, approved by the legislature.

   • Budget: The department is beginning work on the 2013-15 budget, and is in the process of understanding how the programs align with the 10-year goals of the Governor’s Plan. We have begun the process of talking to the Governor’s Advisory Program Funding Teams about how our programs support the Healthy People initiative of the 10-year. Tammy Baney is a member of the Program Funding Team, appointed by the Governor, as advisory to the Governor as he develops his budget. We will plan to do a preview for Council in August focused on how our budget aligns with the Governor’s 10-Year Plan and the Healthy People outcomes.

   • OHSI continues to roll forward in a positive way. We are currently operating four programs: Mortgage Payment Assistance, Mortgage Payment Assistance for people on unemployment, Preservation, and the Loan Refinance Assistance Pilot Project. To date we have expended $77M of the $220M Hardest Hit Fund grant, and Oregon is still leading the other states. The US Department of Treasury is coming back for a compliance review in August. Participants are beginning to exit the program and we have begun to survey them and will provide surveys over the next couple of years to see if the program benefited them, allowed them to stay in their homes, or did it just buy them time to find other options. That information will be important policy consideration both in Oregon and nationally.

   • Legislative Concepts: The first round of legislative concepts are being developed by agencies, in concert with the Governor’s office. The department doesn’t have an ambitious legislative agenda. We do have a concept we want to explore with Council around workforce housing and one that would extend the Farmworker Housing Tax Credit which will be expiring in 2014; we want to look at sponsoring or co-sponsoring a potential increase in the rate for the Earned Income Tax Credit, as an anti-poverty measure tool; and we are going to rethink the structure and role of the Interagency Council on Hunger and Homelessness. There are also some other housekeeping items, but those are the basic frameworks and we will come back in late summer with more policy development.
Baney comments that the program funding team is very unique and her hat is off to the OHCS team. The presentation was very well done and she was very proud of the presentation done by Julie and Diana.

VI. PUBLIC COMMENT: None.

VII. NEW BUSINESS:
   A. Consolidated Funding Cycle. Van Vliet says that this is actually a bittersweet moment, in that while she is excited about the variety of projects coming on line, and humbled by the work that goes into this process by staff, at the same time it is painful to recognize how many truly worthy projects we are not able to fund because of limited resources. She points out that the process needs to change because it is simply too much work and costs everyone in the system too high a price. It also needs to change because of unintended consequences related to regional equity and responsiveness to locally-identified needs.

   Significant time has been spent on working with stakeholders to understand their concerns and perspectives about the application, the process, and the ways they see need in their communities. A new process is being designed for the future, and some important changes will be made in 2013 and beyond.

   She also commends her team and Heather Pate, who manages the housing resources and finance team. She points out that while she has instituted major changes at the department in a relatively short time, the need for change is in no way any kind of indictment on staff. It is the natural progression of public processes. She sees how hard staff works each and every day and how much they care and want to get it right. She stresses that she is grateful for their service.

   1. Overview. Julie Cody, Program Delivery Division Administrator, and Karen Tolvstad, Policy, Strategy & Community Engagement Division Administrator, give an overview of the 2012 CFC scoring process, target population prioritization, planned regional allocations, types of projects funded, and the approval process. (A copy of the CFC PowerPoint presentation is included in the permanent meeting records.)

   They note the criteria for the scoring model applied to the applications had been published in the CFC application in January 2012, and the agency was bound by those criteria. Although the scoring model used was the existing published model, the process by which the applications were scored was different this year. The Housing Division streamlined their score sheets and ensured the criteria on the score sheets were very objective and verifiable, and they moved away from the process of having different teams of individuals scoring different applications and, for consistency, had single individuals scoring a particular part of all applications. A management team then reviewed the scores and, finally, the executive team and two council members evaluated final scores to make final determinations based on published allocations.

   Tolvstad states that the published scoring model the agency was bound to this year does not give consideration to the geographic distribution of awards, other than providing overall urban and rural set asides. She notes this is another of the key things that is being looked at in the process and policy changes for next year.
2. Projects Awarded by OHCS – Informational Only. Baney distributes a map of Oregon showing projects funded and not funded across the state, and raises concerns about the lack of awards in Eastern Oregon. Margaret again highlights the fact that geographic distribution factors were not part of the previously published criteria the agency was bound to and was of concern to her as well. She emphasizes the need for serious analysis of the issue, including an historical look at numbers and types of applications and OHCS investments. Heather Pate, Multi-Family Section Manager, gives an overview of the ten projects awarded funding by OHCS, but not requiring Housing Council approval:

- Alma Gardens (Hillsboro, OR). 45 units, elderly, new construction.
- Beech Street Apartments (Portland, OR). 32 units, alcohol and drug recovery, new construction. Provides services that are culturally adapted for African American women and their children.
