

Who Owns History? The Politics of Historic Preservation

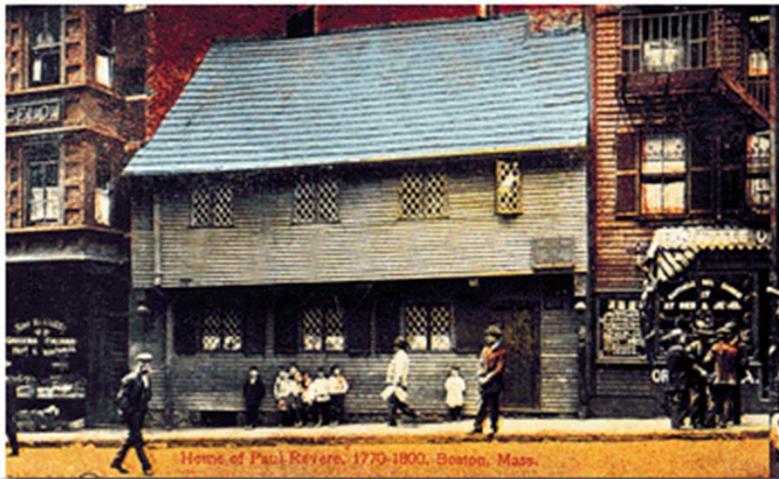

Reiko Hillyer
Lewis and Clark College
Department of History

Jewish Daily Forward Building, Lower East Side, NYC (1912)

Paul Revere House, North End, Boston, preserved 1907-8

19 North Square (Paul Revere House), c. 1898

Boston's North End, 1901

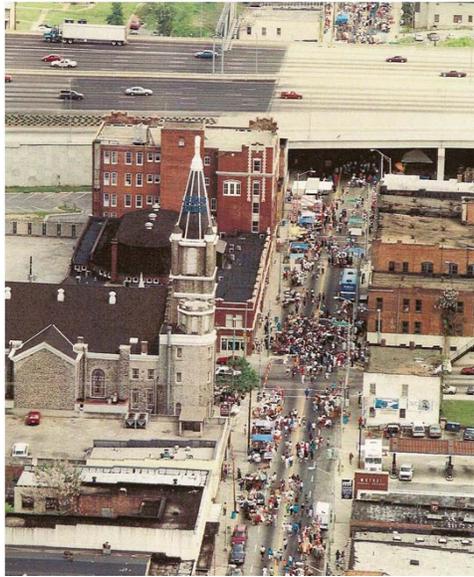

Trail Dust Town, Arizona

Turning Points: Whose History?

Pennsylvania Station, New York City (1910)

Lowell Mills, c. 1910

They Came To Lowell! Last year more than 500,000 visitors made Lowell, Massachusetts, a special destination... and found a working American dream. You can find it, too. Come to Lowell.

Book Passage To Lowell's Historic Mill District on an old-fashioned molly and canalboat! On the Mill and Canal Tour you'll inspect the Canal Locks, meet gatekeepers in period costume, and explore a classic Lowell mill.

Listen To A Live Performance of Mill It's songs and stories with folk artist Alex Dennis, Dolores, Larry, Holly and friends who carry the tunes Sunday through Thursday at 10:30.

For Tour Reservations or more information on the Lowell National Historical Park and Heritage State Park.

Meet The Mill Girls Take in the multi-image slide show at the National and State Park Visitors Center. Discover the mills and the mill girls, the strikes, the struggles, the ruin, and the rebirth. It's all history for the taking... in Lowell.

Wade Into Waterpower! New this year, in the historic Black Building, is the exciting Lowell Heritage State Park Waterpower Exhibit. With hands-on working models of canal locks, actual turbines, an antique loom, and some fascinating personal history.

LOWELL MASSACHUSETTS HISTORY AT WORK

Storage Saw Park Restaurant Exhibit
 across the Visitor Center
 60 Market Street, Lowell, MA 01852
 Call (603) 459-1333. Open daily 10:00-5:00. "Come Share The Spirit Of Lowell!"

Lowell National Historic Park, 1978

© 2010 QT Luong / terragalleria.com

#usma45646

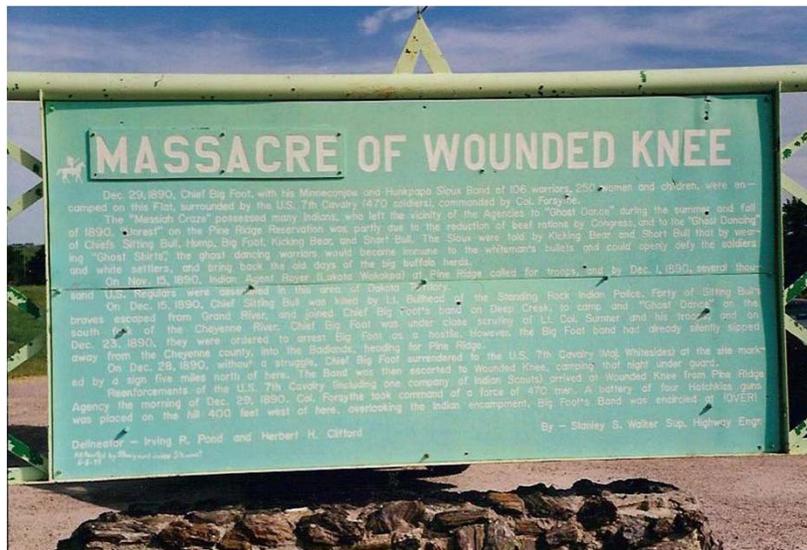

Board of the Dead
at the Battle of Wounded Knee
North Western Photo Co
Chester Neb

Wounded Knee, 1890

American Indian Movement at Wounded Knee, 1973

Pine Ridge, South Dakota (dedicated, 1965)

Colonial Williamsburg

Hollywood, Maryland

South Carolina Suburb

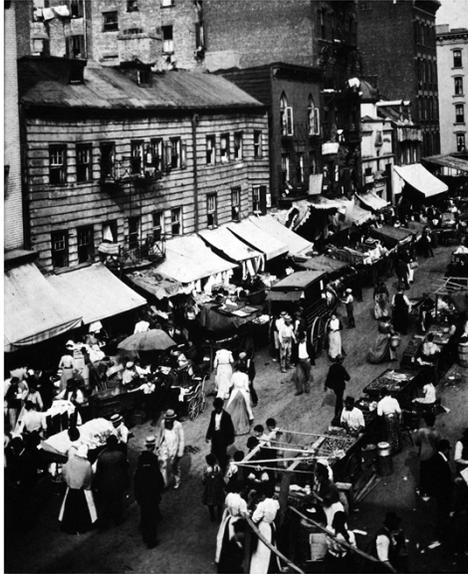

Slave cabins as tourist lodging near Natchez, Mississippi

The Headman, Richmond, VA (1988, 1993)

The Ironies of Historic Preservation

Tenement Museum, Lower East Side, New York City, 1988

If you own major historic property anywhere in the USA, we can help you profit from the past.

The real estate marketplace has a new and important product line: historic and nonhistoric properties built prior to 1944 and in need of renovation.

If you own a hotel, resort, commercial or multiple-unit residential structure that meets the above description, we'd like to talk to you about acquiring, syndicating, securing debt financing or just reuniting it with you.

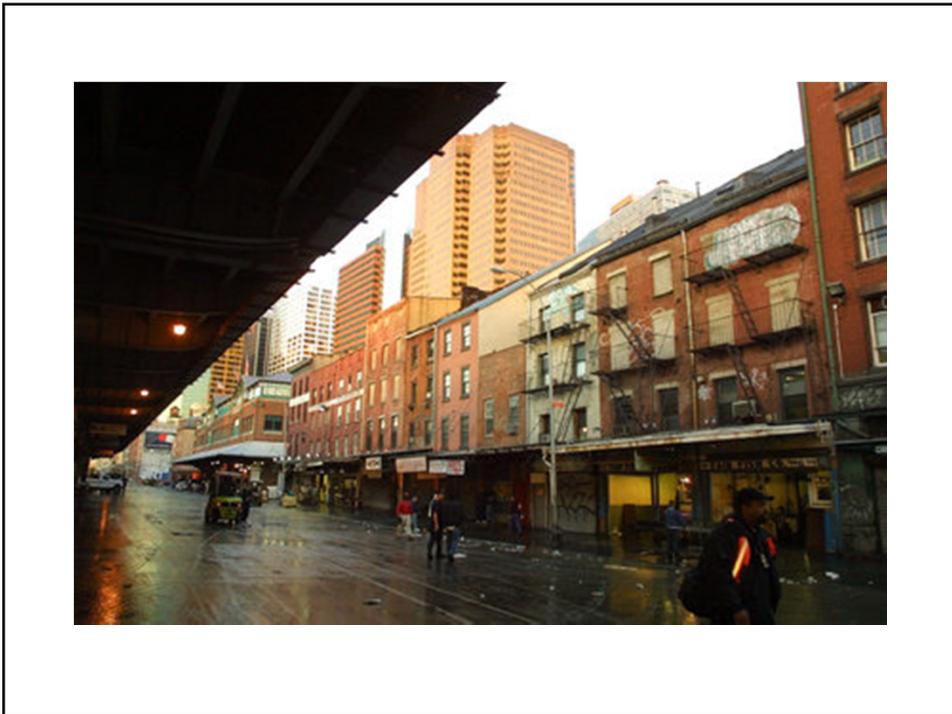

They make excellent vehicles for rehabilitation, syndication and profits. And as a lead-based development-investment company, we've got the capital, capability and track record to make it work. Explore the profit possibilities. Call Mitchell Davis or Arthur Fefferman at (212) 394-5756 or write to the address below.

Sybedon
We'll help you profit from the past.

SYBEDON CORPORATION INVESTMENT BANKER TO THE REAL ESTATE INDUSTRY
1211 Avenue of the Americas / Rockefeller Center, New York 10036 / Telex: 123651

South Street, 1940s

South Street Seaport Today

Manhattan's High Line, c. 1930s

The High Line, just before rehabilitation

Rendering of High Line Project

The High Line

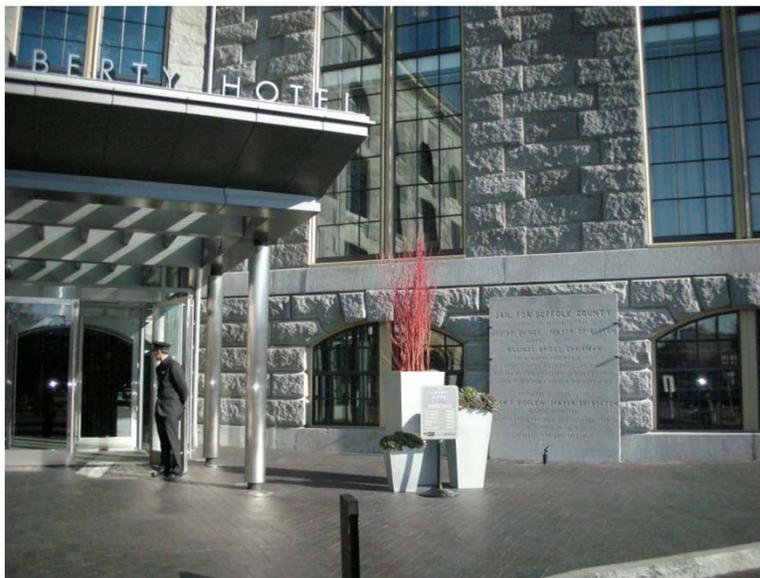

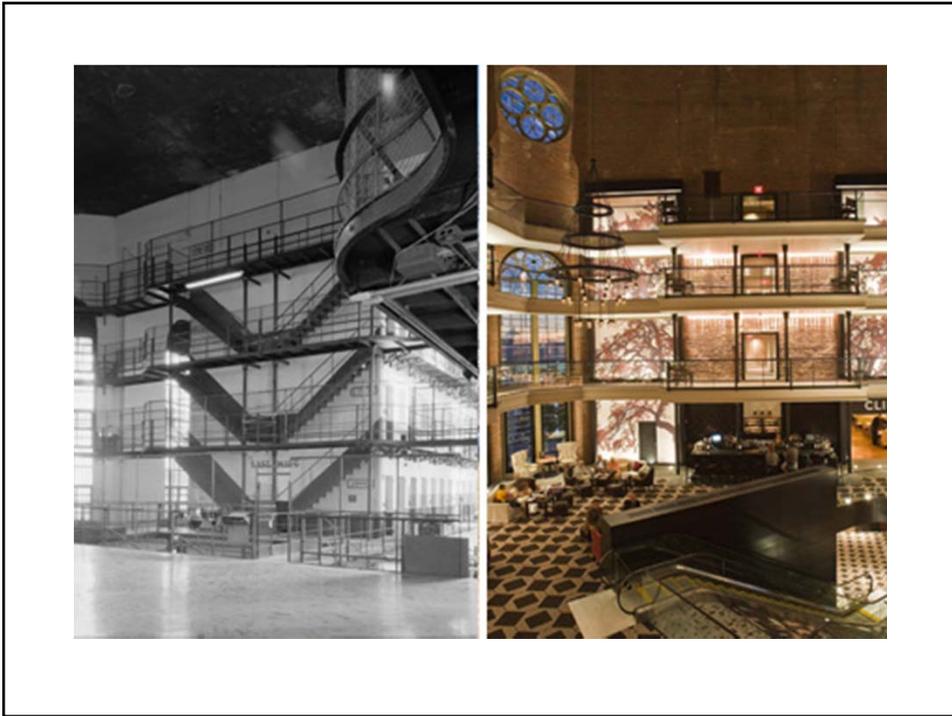

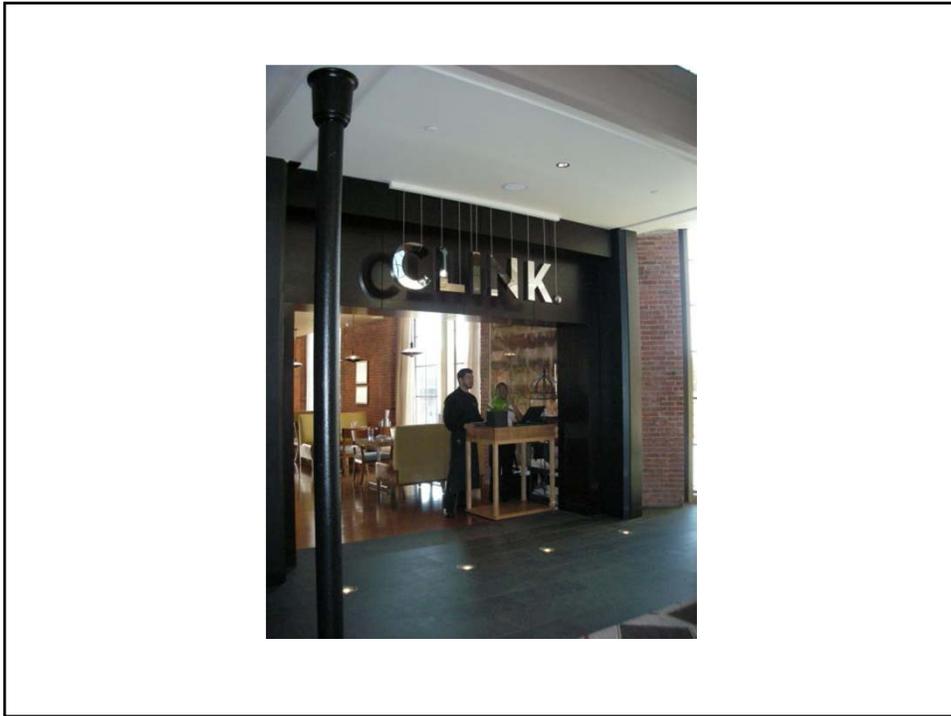

Charles Street Jail, Boston (1851)

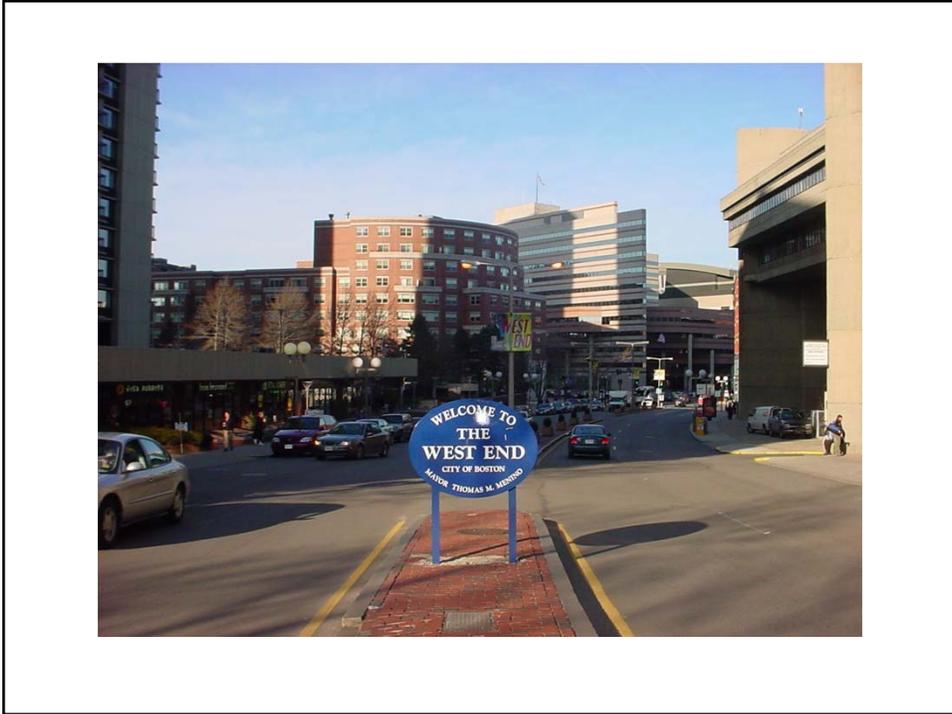

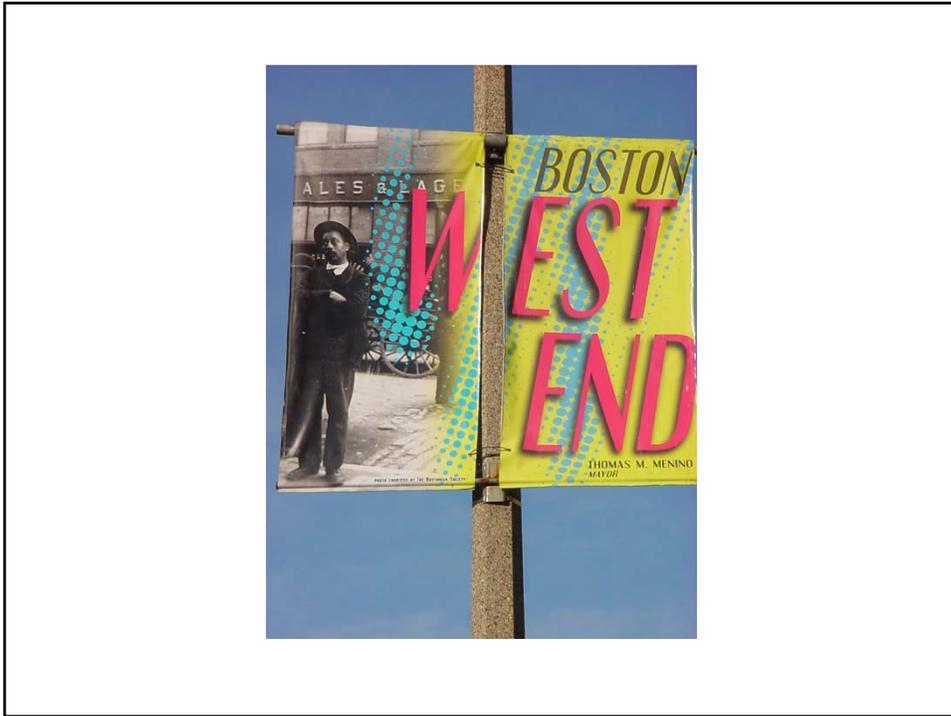

Charles Street Jail becomes Liberty Hotel (Boston)

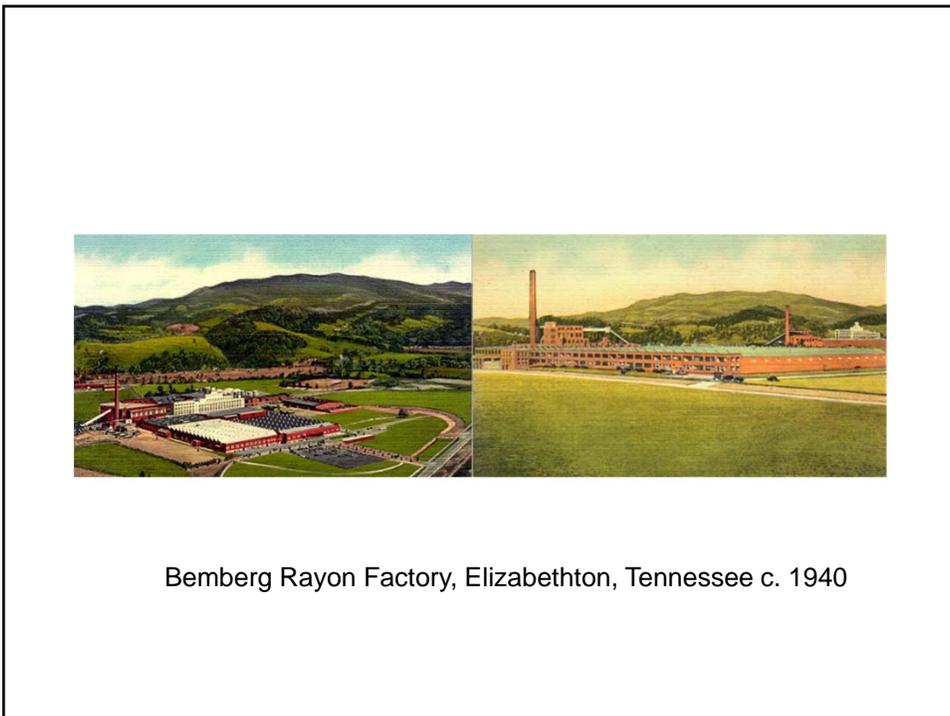

Homestead Steel Plant, Pennsylvania, c.1900

Homestead Smokestacks Today: "The Waterfront"

Bemberg Rayon Factory, Elizabethton, Tennessee c. 1940

Bemberg Factory, c. 2000

"Within these Walls," Ipswich, Massachusetts

"Within these Walls," Smithsonian Museum of American History

Robert E. Lee Statue, Richmond, VA (1890s)

Memento Park, Budapest, Hungary (1993)

Confederate Monument, Asheville, North Carolina

Holly Springs, Mississippi