

Hot Spots from the State Fire Marshal September 2012

Free materials for Fire Prevention Week 2012

Fire prevention week is October 7-13 and the OSFM has a large selection of fire safety materials available free to Oregon fire agencies to support their education and outreach efforts. Items available include brochures, “rack cards,” checklists, posters, magnets, and other materials. Some of the materials are dual language with English on one side and Spanish on the other. The OSFM also has lending resources available such as a hazard house tabletop display, smoke alarm display, mobile billboard, 9-1-1 simulator, flameless candles, and more. View the online order form which has links to allow you to view items before ordering. For assistance or more information, contact Candice Clark at candice.clark@state.or.us or 503-934-8266.

OSFM Sparky awards

This year the OSFM will present its annual Sparky awards at the combined conference for the Oregon Fire District Directors and Oregon Fire Chiefs Association, November 8-10, 2012 at the Riverhouse Convention Center in Bend, Oregon. This will be the final combined conference for the two associations. To register for the conference or for more information, visit the OFDDA or the OFCA website.

OSFM on Twitter and Facebook

You can now follow the OSFM on Twitter and Facebook. We are excited to add these social media outlets to our communication toolbox to enhance our outreach to the public, Oregon fire agencies, and other stakeholders. This effort directly applies to Goal 6 of the OSFM Strategic Plan to expand OSFM’s use of technology resources for internal and external customers.