2023 PREA Compliance Status Report prepared by: Alisha Goodwin, OYA Agency PREA Coordinator

History

In 2003, Congress voted unanimously to pass the Prison Rape Elimination Act (PREA) and create the National Prison Rape Elimination Commission.

Final PREA rules took effect in August 2012 for the prevention, detection, and response to sexual abuse in confinement facilities. These rules set national standards for four categories of facilities: adult prisons and jails, lockups, community confinement facilities, and juvenile facilities. Adherence to the standards assists in protecting residents in all such facilities at the federal, state, and local levels. Previous versions of this report included information on steps the agency has taken to reach compliance with each provision listed in the Juvenile Standards. Oregon Youth Authority (OYA) continues to take steps to ensure compliance with all PREA standards for its juvenile facilities, including contracting with individuals certified by the U.S. Department of Justice to conduct PREA audits of its facilities.

The Oregon Youth Authority's mission is to protect the public and reduce crime by holding youth accountable and providing opportunities for reformation in safe environments.

Agency Description

OYA's Approach

OYA uses the Positive Human Development (PHD) Model which is a research-based model for working with youth¹. As part of this model and in conjunction with OYAs mission statement, youth are provided a wide array of treatment programs, educational and vocational access, and programming. Some examples of support include:

- Assistance for each resident via treatment and multi-disciplinary teams (which meets quarterly and includes the youth and approved family members) to successfully address their specific education and treatment needs in an age-appropriate manner,
- Residents are provided access to culturally relevant services, resources, events and activities.
- Residents may engage in restorative justice practices to take accountability and repair harm. The goal is to empower residents to effectively manage their relationships and to positively contribute to their communities.
- Evidence-based programming and treatment such Power Source, skill building, Alcohol and other Drugs, and sexual offense specific groups.

Facilities

OYA operates five close-custody youth correctional facilities and four close-custody youth transitional facilities throughout Oregon.

Youth Correctional Facilities (YCF)

Youth are committed to OYA's legal and physical custody by county juvenile courts. For youth to receive an OYA close-custody commitment, their crime must have been committed prior to the age of 18 and they must be adjudicated prior to the age of 20. OYA serves adjudicated youth between the ages of 12 and 25. Youth correctional facilities include:

- Eastern Oregon Youth Correctional Facility
- MacLaren Youth Correctional Facility
- Oak Creek Youth Correctional Facility
- Rogue Valley Youth Correctional Facility

Transitional Facilities

In addition to correctional facilities, OYA also operates transition programs which provide a bridge from the secure facilities to a community placement. They provide youth with the opportunity to continue treatment, attend school, and build vocational skills. Youth work on community service projects, supervised work crews, and town jobs to not only instill a work ethic, but foster accountability and responsibility through payment of restitution to both victims and the community. Transition facilities include:

- Camp Florence Youth Transitional Facility
- Camp Riverbend Youth Transitional Facility
- Camp Tillamook Youth Transitional Facility
- Jackie Winters Youth Transition Program

Content Notification

The following sections contain the PREA compliance status and data regarding allegations of sexual abuse for both the agency overall and each individual OYA facility. The data includes incidents of youth-to-youth non-consensual sexual acts, youth-to-youth abusive sexual contact, staff-to-youth sexual misconduct, staff-to-youth sexual harassment and youth-to-youth sexual harassment². In addition, some sections of this report include the detailed definitions of sex abuse and sexual harassment, including language that may be considered violent and graphic by some readers.

² Definitions can be found on Appendix A

2023 Agency Wide Efforts

Each year OYA takes multiple measures which focus on continual education and implementation regarding the PREA standards. Some examples include:

- Provides PREA training for all employees via Microsoft Teams meetings, online in Workday and in person via New Employee academy and individualized facility and unit trainings. All employees take an online PREA refresher course at least once a year.
- Conducts monthly meetings with PREA Compliance Managers and Sex Abuse Response and Resource Coordinators.
- Conducts weekly check-in meetings for the Professional Standards office and PREA Coordinator.
- Holds monthly check-ins with facility Director to review compliance status and strategies.
- All facilities engage in regular unscheduled PREA Walkthroughs to verify adequate supervision and access to resources (PREA Posters).
- PREA Coordinator and PCMs reviews staffing plans at least annually to review staffing patterns and physical plant needs.
- Semi-annual reminder to all staff and managers regarding reporting options for knowledge or suspicion of abuse or harassment.
- During intake process all youth receive education on sex abuse and sexual harassment and how to report any concerns. Any time a youth moves facilities, they received this education again.
- At least twice a year each living unit will take some time during a regularly scheduled community group and review the ways to report abuse.

The following progress was made in 2023 to reduce sexual abuse, increase sexual safety, and meet federal PREA standards:

- Completed PREA Audits at Tillamook Youth Correctional Facility, Camp Tillamook, and Camp Florence.
- Recommended the Governor's office provide an assurance of the agencies under the state's executive control (Department of Corrections and OYA) commitment to comply with PREA standards.
- During the 2023 legislative session Oregon adjusted statute to add staffing language to the maximum population capacity for youth in correctional facilities, specifically, the "ratio of population to staff assigned primarily or exclusively for supervision and control of adjudicated youth."

- PREA Coordinator provided a PREA training at the Joint Management Meeting in June of 2023 which included all facility Superintendents, Camp Directors, OYA Division directors and managers, and the OYA Director.
- PREA Coordinator with collaboration of PCMs developed a new PCM/SARRC desk manual.
- Developed PREA Binders for every living unit at facilities/transition programs.

Agency-Wide PREA Allegations

OYA has a zero-tolerance standard for abuse or harassment. Staff are required to report any knowledge, suspicion, or youth reports (verbal or written reports) of abuse or harassment. Youth can also report via the OYA Reporting line, through the Governor's Constituent Services office, by filing a grievance, or speaking with any OYA staff. Community members can also report concerns using any of the methods described above or via the reporting Form on OYA's website. Any allegations that meet the definition of sexual abuse or sexual harassment are investigated.

The table below shows the number of total reports as well as substantiated reports of sexual abuse incidents received by OYA during the past 5 years. The Professional Standards Office and Human Resources Office ensure all cases receive due process. Although not required by the PREA standards, OYA began reporting on incidents of youth-to-youth sexual harassment in 2014.
