

Oregon Youth Authority celebrates Community Services employees

Community Services assistant director Phil Cox gives a Coin Award to Daniel Sifuentez, a JPPO in Marion County.

By OYA Communications
July 22, 2016

The Oregon Youth Authority celebrated Probation, Parole and Community Supervision Week July 17-23 to honor the agency’s Community Services employees.

“Whether they are supervising youth on parole or probation, finding foster homes or services for them, or ensuring that youth and their families maintain positive and supportive connections, our dedicated Community Services employees directly contribute to improving the lives of our youth, their families, and Oregon’s communities,” OYA Director Fariborz Pakseresht wrote in his Director’s Message.

“These hard-working individuals across the state help our youth go on to lead productive, crime-free lives and make our communities safer.”

During the Community Services all-staff meeting on July 19, assistant director Phil Cox gave out 11 Coin Awards to honor employees who have done exceptional work.

Stu Hansen, parole and probation supervisor for Jackson, Josephine, and Klamath counties, receives a Coin Award.

Phil Cox honors Tonya Hoover, OS2 in Lane County, with a Coin Award.

The Coin Award winners are:

- Kelly Braaten, JPPO, Jefferson and Wheeler County
- Sanjuana Cantu, Child Support Coordinator
- Rod Green, Foster Care Certifier, Marion County
- Marty Griffith, JPPA, Wasco County
- Stu Hansen, Parole/Probation Supervisor, Jackson, Josephine and Klamath counties
- Miguel Herrera, JPPO, Washington County
- Tonya Hoover, OS2, Lane County
- John Malone, JPPA, Linn County
- Molly Matherly, JPPO, Washington County
- Daniel Sifuentez, JPPO, Marion County
- Greg Van Vlack, JPPO, Lane County