munk-t'səm a journal entry

How do we know exactly what happened in the past? For hundreds of years, historians have relied on journal entries to piece together details for everyday life and for major events such as wars, important eras, and times of growth and expansion.

DIRECTIONS: Create a journal entry as if you are a character in the book.

Examples include:

- The main character
- A family member of the main character
- A friend of the main character

Your journal entry should include:

- The date (Make sure it is historically accurate!)
- A description of who you are
- Details about the setting (Where are you? What is the weather like?)
- Information about the day or event you are writing about. Include lots of details!
- Information about how you feel about the day/event (Are you mad/sad/happy/tired?)

Dear Journal,
